Struggle in Senatorial
Battle in California

TAMMANY FIRST TO ACT

Smith Forces Take Lead by Surprising Drys in State Convention

BY DAVID LAWRENCE
Copyright 1926, by Post Pub. Co.
Washington—Publication of the letter written by Mrs. William G. McAdoo, youngest daughter of the late President Wilson, endorsing John D. Elliott for the Democratic nomination for United States Senator from California against Isadore Dockweiler, Democratic national committeeman, has given the California contest a national interest, for it reveals that at bottom it is the same old struggle between Governor Al Smith and William McAdoo.

One of the Republican editors of California, who has been a shrewd observer of politics in that state sends this correspondent the following outline of the situation as he sees it: "In the Democratic party, a row has developed between the supporters of McAdoo and the wet Democrats. The latter are favorable to a Tammany Hall program. The Tammany sympathizers look advantage of McAdoo's absence in the east to work out a pretty clever scheme. They engineered a state conference to nominate a ticket which, of course is in defiance of the direct primary law. However, they sugar-coated the convention call with the statement that there would be, of course, no purpose to a conference in the Democratic party, and that a conference of Democratic leaders could select a ticket that would stand up against the common enemy—the republican party—after the Aug. 31 primary. They arranged to permit a fair percentage of loyal McAdoo and dry Democrats to have seats in the convention but saw to it that their own crowd were in sufficient numbers to defeat definitely. A ticket was named with Dockweiler for senator and Ewing, state chairman of the Democratic committee for governor. Also a full ticket for the remaining state officers. Ewing subsequently withdrew and the committee appointed to fill vacancies named Wardell of San Francisco.

"About that time the McAdoo people woke up and they began to get action. Because the Tammany movement had moved fast and had gotten the endorsements of many of the leading Democrats of the state before the note of warning was raised. When they began to move, they put Alexander Johnson of San Diego, in the race for the Democratic nomination for governor and they put up John B. Elliott of Los Angeles, former collector of customs, for United States Senator.

"From a casual survey of the situation it does not look as though the friends of McAdoo can hope for success, although they are planning as vigorous a campaign as conditions will permit. However, it will not be an index at all of McAdoo's strength in California as many of his prominent supporters have become pledged candidates. Dockweiler is national committeeman from California and that, strength with the democratic voters.

"If the conference ticket is successful, as it probably will be, misinformed writers in the east are apt to take the position that the victory means a definite defeat for McAdoo and the loss of the delegation in 1928. I think that that is nothing what-aver to this. The friends of McAdoo are now aroused and will undoubtedly take control of the delegation to the Democratic national convention.

Mr. Elliott, who is running for the senatorial nomination, is well known in the national capital, where at one time he was on the staff of the Associated Press. He was a strong supporter of President Wilson and one of the chief managers for the McAdoo campaign at the Madison Square Garden convention in 1924. The primary is to be held on Aug. 21.

Parents Sure Stranger Is Their Wayward Boy

Real Son Appears to Prove
His Mother Doesn't Know
Own Child

Rivalling for sheer intricacy of its many coincidences any tale ever conceived in the mind of a Voltaire, Dumas or Poe, a case of mistaken identity recently automatically unravelled in Appleton when the real son returned to his home to find his place usurped in the minds and hearts of his family by a total stranger.

The stranger, however, it was pointed out by police, was not an impostor but a young man caught in a net of kindly circumstances where even a mother's love and keen eyes had failed to detect that he was not her son who had left home to wander more than a year ago.

According to the story Clifford Hermann, 19, son of a painter living at 1320 W. Rogers-st, disappeared from sight about 12 months ago. Desultory correspondence, occasional word seeping in to the anxious family, a stray bit of gossip from the paths Clifford had travelled — was all his family heard of him.

WAS SEEING LIFE
It was believed that Clifford had perhaps suffered an accident and was leading the life of a virtual wanderer. The most accurate accounts, the family told police, tended to show that the young man was working with construction gangs, as an itinerant laborer and was seeing life in the van-guard of a carnival company.

Nearly three weeks ago a carnival company played the Appleton lot. Mrs. Hermann, always on the lookout for her son, saw a young man working about the grounds whom she became convinced was her son—Clifford Hermann.

FAIL TO GAIN CHURCH PEACE FOR MEXICANS

Services Will Not Be Resumed, and Economic Boycott Remains in Force

Mexico City.—(P)—Although a deadlock has been reached in the controversy between the Roman Catholic church and the Mexican government over the new religious regulations, hope still exists in some quarters that all doors to a settlement have not been closed.

This hope is more or less based on a statement issued by the Catholic episcopacy as a supplement to its declaration Monday that the situation has reverted to the same status as before the conference Saturday night between President Calles, Archbishop Leopoldo Ruiz Y. Flores and Bishop Diego de Tabasco.

This supplemental statement referred to the "cordiality and frankness" prevailing at Saturday night's conference and declared that the interview gave "hope to all the world that when future serious difficulties are presented they can be resolved with much benefit to the nation through easy understanding between the government and the prelates."

"ABROGATION OF LIBERTY"
In its earlier statement Monday, the episcopate reiterated its stand for the abrogation of the religious laws which regard as obstructive to religious liberty. Bishop Diaz said that this statement which also stated that religious services would not be resumed for the present, was considerably influenced by one attributed to President Calles to the effect that if priests returned to their churches they must do so subject to the law.

This the episcopate interprets as contrary to President Calles' assurance, which the church said was given on Saturday night that the registration of priests under the law was merely for administrative purposes.

MRS. J. F. HOWARD DIES IN MEXICO

Was Wife of Manufacturer
Who Figured in Sensational
Suit Across Border

Mexico City.—(P)—Mrs. John F. Howard, wife of the Haverhill, Mass., mayonnaise manufacturer, who before her marriage to Mr. Howard was Miss Eleanor B. Phillips of Milwaukee, died Sunday afternoon at the American hospital of double pneumonia and spinal meningitis.

The body will be sent to Milwaukee accompanied by a friend of the Howards. Mrs. Howard was the second wife of the Massachusetts manufacturer whose divorce and remarriage in Mexico brought suits and counter-suits between him and his two sons. They alleged perjury and bigamy in connection with their father's divorce and remarriage to Mrs. Phillips and demanded that he make a financial settlement with their mother.

In July Mr. Howard was jailed at Cuernavaca at the instigation of his sons, but after a few days was released on bail. There was no formal trial, the judge holding the evidence insufficient. Mr. Howard has maintained that he did not violate any Mexican law and that he left a sufficient amount of property with his first wife in Haverhill.

UNCLE JOE CANNON IS NOT SICK, BUT TIRED. OUT, SAYS PHYSICIAN

Danville.—(P)—Uncle Joe Cannon is not sick, but merely tired out. This statement, given out by his personal physician, Dr. Charles E. Wilkinson, was in denial of published reports that the summoning home of Cannon's daughter, Miss Helen Cannon from Europe was necessitated by his serious illness.

The aged ex-speaker of the national house is taking more rests, however, and has ceased his custom of a daily automobile ride through the city.

GIRL DIES OF POISON DRUGS STUDENT GAVE

Medical School Sophomore Administered Potions as Experiment, Is Charge

Cleveland, O.—(P)—A sophomore student in the medical school at Western Reserve university was being questioned Tuesday morning about the death of Dorothy Kirk, 21, who police believe was a victim of drugs given her as experimental purposes.

Detectives found half a bushel basket full of drugs under the student's bed. Some were of the most deadly poisons, they assert.

"From what we have already learned, I would say he has the same slant on life as Loeb and Leopold." One of the detectives declared. "We believe we can lead him to make vital admission in solving the case."

"GAVE GIRL 'LOVE PILLS'"
City chemist Knapp will be making analysis of the pills found in Miss Kirk's room and compare them with similar pills in the suspect's collection. Two of the tablets, already analyzed reveal that they were "love" pills, it is said.

"I met Miss Kirk" the young man said, "at church services."

"When did you first begin giving her drugs?" police asked.

"A month, or six weeks ago," the suspect answered.

"Dorothy told me she wasn't feeling well and I prepared some prescriptions."

"What was the matter with her?"

"I don't know" the suspect replied.

"What I gave her was to soothe her. I thought she was nervous."

FAILS TO TELL COMPOUNDS
Police said the youth could not or would not tell what drugs were in the pills. "The young man's mother told police that many of the medicines found in her son's room had been prescribed for her by a hospital clinic and by her personal physician for ailments she had suffered during the last few years."

Before they left their former home in Paris, France, six years ago, the mother said she was told by a philosopher that dangers awaited her in America. She and her husband decided to come regardless but they laid down rules for their son to prevent his getting into trouble.

The youth said last Friday night Dorothy complained of feeling "upset." Saturday afternoon she was in severe pain and a doctor was called. She was taken to a hospital where she died 12 hours later.

SCREEN LOVER WISHED TO DIE AT EARLY AGE

"I Would Hate to Live to Be an Old Man," Valentino
Told Friend

New York.—(P)—Rudolph Valentino, wanted to die young, and today the body of the 31-year-old "perfect lover" of the screen lay in an undertaker's parlor, magnet for a crowd that blocked traffic. Funeral plans are awaiting the arrival from Italy of his brother.

From his native Italy to Los Angeles, capital of filmdom, tributes flowed in to the dead actor, who came to America practically penniless, got a job as a gardener and last year earned and spent $1,000,000.

John W. Considine, producer of his pictures, said in Los Angeles, "Valentino several times remarked to me 'I shall die young. I know it and I shall not be sorry. I would hate to live to be an old man.'"

Italian admirers in Los Angeles have started a movement for funds to erect a monument to Valentino. Pola Negri, who announced some time ago that she expected to become his third wife, is prostrated.

WANTED TO WED POLA
Charles Eytan of Los Angeles, a mutual friend of Valentino and the Polish actress, says the wedding was set for as soon after Jan. 1, as their motion picture work would permit. In Beverly Hills, Eytan says, there is virtually completed a building that was to have been an ideal home for Rudy and Pola.

Maria Benda, folies girl who was Valentino's companion in New York the evening before he went to the Polyclinic hospital for the double operation that preceded his death said here that Valentino had no intention of remarrying.

"He was not engaged to marry Miss Negri," said Miss Benda. "You'll notice that all the statements have come from her. He never denied any of them because he was too fine. He did think a great deal of her. We had a discussion on marriage recently and he told me that he wouldn't marry again until he was ready to give up his career. Then he would settle down to a domestic life."

DENIES "WILD PARTY"
As to rumors that they had been to a "wild party" the night before Valentino went to the hospital, Miss Benda said:

"We went to Texas Gulman's and had a marvelous time dancing and when we were there while Rudolph told me he wanted to get out. We left and he took me home, and then left me."

The star's brother Alberto Guglielmi is on the way from Italy to give orders as to the disposal of the body and his attorney and friend Michael Romano is coming from Chicago to take charge of his estate.

WAS INSURED FOR $200,000
One estimate is that Valentino left an estate of $750,000. Joseph H. Schenck, head of the Artists Film Corporation said Valentino had spent nearly every cent of $1,000,000 he made last year under his contract for $200,000 and one-fourth of the gross receipts from his pictures. Reports that his life was insured for $1,000,000 in favor of Mr. Schenck were declared erroneous by his insurer for $200,000 in favor of the company.

Valentino's first big picture, "The Four Horsemen of the Apocalypse" brought in $6,000,000 and his most popular picture "The Sheik" was viewed by 125,000,000 people throughout the world.

15, MUST HANG

Adam Burress, 15, has been sentenced to hang Oct. 29, at Welch, W. Va., following his conviction of criminal assault on a nine-year-old girl. The judge instructed the jury that they could not consider Burress' age, and they convicted him in nine minutes.

ROAD PLEADS LONGER TIME FOR WAR DEBT

Asks Extension Similar to Those Accorded Foreign
Debtors to Nation

Chicago.—(P)—A domestic enterprise heavily indebted to the government because of federal wartime measures should be given extension similar to those accorded foreign war debtors, it is contended in a petition filed before Federal Judge James E. Wilkerson here.

The plea is that the basis of an action of certain bondholders to delay a requested early sale of the Chicago, Milwaukee and St. Paul railroad under foreclosure.

Citing a bill to go before congress in November, a favorable report on the proposal by the interstate commerce committee of the senate and approval of Secretary of the Treasury Mellon the bondholders would make the issue one for congressional decision.

The bondholders defense committee filing the plea says the road became indebted to the government to the extent of 55 millions as a result of federal action in taking over the railroads during the world war, and should be granted extensions. Until the matter be decided at Washington, they petition abeyance.

FORECLOSURE IS ASKED
The petition, filed by lawyers for Edwin C. Jameson, developed Monday in opposition to a previous plea before Judge Wilkerson, asking early foreclosure sale to permit a reorganization proposed by trustees. The Jameson attorneys represented that the group is preparing to make a cash bid against the majority bond holders, headed by Kuhn, Loeb and Co. and the National City Co.

Maintaining that a sale would cancel certain portion of the equity of the stockholders as well as the bondholders, the petition asks for an exhaustive survey of the road's holdings and an "upset" or minimum price of $250,000,000 be fixed if the road be put up for sale prior to a decision in congress.

MAYOR ACTS AS OUTGROWTH OF LATE MURDER

Police Chief S. A. Lengel and
Two Members of Com-

OTHERS MAY FOLLOW

Don R. Mellett, Assassinated
Publisher, Attacked Trio
in Newspaper

BULLETIN
Canton, O.—(P)—The Mellett murder case is to be thrown directly into the federal courts today with the filing by Mrs. Don R. Mellett, widow of the slain editor of a civil suit for $100,000 damages against Louis J. Jager and Ben Rudner.

Canton, O.—(P)—The axe which Monday cut down three of Canton's official heads has not yet been sheathed and Mayor S. M. Swarts may be expected to wield it still further within the next few days.

Monday night the mayor dismissed Chief of Police S. A. Lengel, Monday afternoon he "fired" Pierce Jansen and John Burris, two of the three members of the civil service commission. The deposed chief has right of redress before the new civil service commission comprised of George Melbourne and Charles Flory, appointed by the mayor Monday, and James Allardice another Swarts appointee who had previously voted to oust Lengel, Jansen and Burris at a hearing against the chief last spring voted for reinstatement.

OTHERS MAY GO
Members of the police force other than Lengel are understood to be in line for the preferment of charges at an early date.

The dismissals are either the outgrowth of or have been influenced by the investigation into the murder of Don R. Mellett. Canton publishes the inquiry into the alleged liquor conspiracy from which the murder plot is believed to have been the outgrowth.

Mellett editorially had vigorously attacked Lengel and had followed with attacks on Jansen and Burris when they failed to vote for the chief's removal.

NO OUTSIDE LEGAL AID
Columbus, O.—(P)—Prospects for Prosecuting Attorney C. B. McClintock of Stark-co to obtain outside legal assistance for his grand jury inquiry into the Mellett murder case at Canton were virtually shattered today by First Assistant Attorney H. H. Griswold.

HENRY FORD WILL RUN 2,000-ACRE HEMP FARM

South Charleston, O.—(P)—In addition to his various other enterprises Henry Ford is going into the hemp farming business. Two years ago he bought a 2,000-acre tract of land on the right of way of his Detroit, Toledo and Ironton railroad near here. The land was divided into farms and let out of tenants. Today the tenants received notice to vacate by March 1, 1927, and it was explained the manufacturer intended converting the property into a large hemp farm.

SPEEDING CAR FATALLY INJURES MAN AT BENNETT

Superior.—(P)—Moved down by a speeding automobile as he was about to board a bus at Bennett, 30 miles south of here Henning Morik, 39, Hawthorne, Wis., will die before the end of the day, physicians said. Morik is in a local hospital.

Fifteen A Day Make An Ad More Than Pay

"I had fifteen replies to the Post-Crescent ad which I ran for two insertions to sell five Boston Terrier puppies. I am very pleased. Your paper is satisfactory, the best advertising medium I know of. The results were wonderful."

So said Mrs. Dewey Boyce, 1421 N. Clark street. Thank you Mrs. Boyce for those kind words.

We feel that your words are living, breathing proof of the effectiveness of "Post-Crescent ads."

We hope they stimulate others into using Post-Crescent ads to sell live stock, poultry or merchandise; or to rent houses and apartments.

Representative of State Lenroot Club Confers With Lenroot Men Here

That every township, hamlet, village and populous section of Outagamie-co may have "Lenroot for Senator" representation during the campaign. A. E. Fairburn, representing E. C. Jacobs, Elk Mound, Wis., president of the Lenroot State Agricultural club was in Appleton for a short time Monday for conference with local Lenroot supporters.

Organization of county agriculturalists into working Lenroot clubs is the motivating object of Mr. Fairburn here and in other sections of the state.

Making only a preliminary survey of the situation Monday the visitor announced that he would return in the near future and undertake an active speaking, personal solicitation and publicity campaign.

Much of the work Mr. Fairburn indicated will be carried on through the mail; group meetings will be arranged and competent speakers invited to address county residents on the merits of Senator Irvine L. Lenroot.

Considerable missionary work was accomplished in the county by Mrs. Dorothy Lenroot Black, daughter of the senior senator, who gave three well attended addresses in behalf of her father.

Mrs. Black made her first stop at Shiocton where she spoke for half an hour at 1:30 in the afternoon she spoke at Black Creek and at 3:30 she gave a half hour address at Seymour.

In the evening Mrs. Black was granted the platform at an outdoor show being held at Little Chute and it was there she spoke at the greatest length to a large crowd. It was reported.

Although Mrs. Black will not swing back through the county an ample number of competent speakers will be brought in to advocate Senator Lenroot's reelection, leaders here stated Tuesday.

M'DONALD TALKS TO H. N. SOCIETY

Former Kaukauna Man Invited to Address Breakfast Meeting

Andrew R. McDonald, Madison, formerly of Kaukauna, a member of the Wisconsin Railroad commission is to be the speaker at the monthly breakfast meeting of the Holy Name society of St. Joseph church on Sunday, Sept. 12. Arrangements for the meeting were made at a meeting of the officers of the society Monday evening at the home of Raymond Lang. The program of activities for the coming year was outlined. The society will attend Holy Communion in a body on the second Sunday of each month it was decided. Following the attendance at the 8 o'clock mass in a body, the monthly meeting and breakfast will be held in St. Joseph hall.

Efforts to have a record crowd in attendance at the September meeting are to be made. Mr. McDonald will speak on the parochial high school question and the duties of fatherhood. The question of building a parish high school has been discussed at several meetings and it is expected that general discussion on the subject will be held after Mr. McDonald's address.

Max Bauer was appointed general chairman of all committees in charge of activities during the coming year.

Leo Rechner was appointed chairman of the membership drive committee. This committee is to begin work at once enlisting new members. An effort is to be made to secure at least 200 members. The new members will be received in the society at the November meeting.

Henry Tillman was appointed chairman of the music and singing committee and Louis Schweitzer is head of the breakfast committee.

Harmonica Contest
Frederick DeGroot won first prize in the harmonica contest held Monday night at Fischer Appleton theater. Martin Van Ryzin won second prize and third prize went to Cyril Theles. The contest will be held Wednesday Sept. 1.

SOMETHING NEW AT SEYMOUR FAIR

Among the displays at Seymour Fair this year is the display of the Harley-Davidson commercial parcel car that will deliver all ordinary commercial light delivering up to 500 lbs. and save 2-3 the cost over the use of light autos. Appleton merchants visiting the Fair are invited to stop and Mr. Macklin will be very glad to talk over the delivery problem with them and will show them how they can increase their sales, give quicker deliveries and save money doing it.

Another feature is a display of Harley-Davidson motorcycles by Harry Macklin Harley-Davidson Dealer at Appleton. The display consists of the New Harley-Davidson Single cylinder motorcycle, comfortable and safe to ride and the lowest cost power transportation money can buy. It is nothing unusual for private riders to get from 20 to 100 miles per gallon of gasoline with this motorcycle.

WISCONSIN WEATHER

Fair tonight and probably Wednesday; rising temperature Wednesday.

WEATHER CONDITIONS
A slight trough of low pressure crossing the central and eastern portion of the country during the past 24 hours has been attended by scattered showers. A high pressure area covers the plain states and Rocky mountains slopes this morning, with fair and rather cool weather. This is in position to continue dominating conditions in this section tonight and Wednesday, with generally fair weather. Low pressure and high temperatures follow the "High" in the intermountain regions and may spread eastward later in the week.

ROHAN INSTALLS SUPPLY SYSTEM IN SCHOOLS HERE

Will Enable Superintendent to Keep Check on Disposal of Supplies

A supply system which will enable the superintendent of schools to keep a close check on the kind and amount of supplies used in each city school has been introduced in Appleton schools by Superintendent E. J. Rohan.

A central supply room is located in the basement of Lincoln school. Each public school has a local supply room, which is cared for by the janitor of that school, and as supplies are received in Lincoln school they are labeled, numbered and packed away in the supply rooms.

A large card which is sectioned into squares, with a square for each teacher, is then prepared for each separate article and a separate card for each school. Each type of pencil, drawing paper, booktablets has a separate card. Each teacher has a number of requisition slips. If she needs materials she will fill out a requisition slip with the number of the article and the amount and hangs it on a spindle outside her door. The janitor collects the slips twice a day and fills the order from the local supply room.

When the janitor's stock becomes low he replenishes it through the same system of requisition slips. At the end of each month the teacher's orders are collected and entered on the separate cards. In this manner it is able to determine at a glance which school is using most of any materials and, in each school, which teacher is using the largest amount.

If the teacher's orders for any one article seem too large, and investigation is made and the cause for the use of the articles is made. The same method is used in distributing school books. If a book is lost the card is referred to, and the teacher who drew that book is held responsible.

The new system makes it possible for all children to have all the tools necessary to do proper work. It is business like and a check is kept on all the teachers to see that the use of the tools is not abused.

NO SERIOUS FIRES IN WHOLE MONTH

July Easy for Firemen, Monthly Records Show

The month of July passed without a major fire in Appleton, according to records compiled by the department this morning. In all the apparatus was called out 14 times during the month.

Calls responded to follow:
Rubbish fires, 2; escaping steam, 1; children playing with matches, 1; kerosene oil stove, 1; overheated clutch, 1; spontaneous combustion, 2; unknown origin, 1; short circuit, 1; sparks, 1; back fire, 1; electric iron, 2 and oil ignited by a carelessly thrown match, 1.

Property damage in each instance, where any resulted, was comparatively small, it was stated.

WILL CONDUCT SURVEY OF MUSIC IN INDUSTRY

A survey of music in industry in Appleton will be made by the chamber of commerce for the National Bureau of Advancement of Music, according to Hugh G. Corbett, general secretary of the chamber. A questionnaire covering the musical organizations in local industrial plants, interest displayed by employees, and scope of musical activities has been received by the chamber.

HI-Y BOYS WILL LEAVE FOR CAMP

Six Members of Club Will Attend Camp Manitowish
With John Pugh

Six members of Appleton Hi-Y club, accompanied by John W. Pugh, club leader, will leave at 6 o'clock Wednesday morning for Camp Manitowish at Boulder Junction, the state Y. M. C. A. camp for boys. The boys will attend the Hi-Y club training period at the camp which ends Sept. 3. Members of the party are Francis McAllister, Robert Eads, Arthur Smith, Robert Mitchell, Russel Denyes and Mark Catlin, Jr. The boys will reach camp Wednesday afternoon.

The camp opens with a three-day canoe trip, after which the regular training starts for a week. Mornings will be devoted to Hi-Y work and afternoons to recreation and sports. The group with boys from Hi-Y clubs from all parts of the state will be divided into commissions. Each commission will have charge of a certain work, as Bible study, discussion work, and similar activities. They will meet and prepare programs of their work for use in all state clubs next fall. Then they will meet with the leaders and the programs will be revised and approved. The ideas will be found in booklets and sent to clubs of the entire state to be followed in their 1926 programs.

When the local boys return plans will be made for a three-day retreat the first or second weekend after the school opens. The retreat will be the second annual affair of its kind and will be held in the northern part of the state. Reports of the Hi-Y period of the camp will be made and a program of the local club's activities for the coming year will be prepared.

27 Varieties Of Dogs On Treasurer's License Books

There are at least 753 dogs in Appleton, for this number is registered on the books at the city treasurer as being officially licensed for the year 1926. How many other canine sires in the city officials are unable to even estimate.

Licenses were issued 27 varieties, or kinds of dogs. They are Pekinese, Fox Terrier, Bull, Shepherd, Irish Terrier, Hound, Chow, Poodle, Toy Boston, Spaniel, Police, Collie, Spitz, Newfoundland, Canadian, Beagle, Set-

HARDWARE COMPANY IS HOST TO BICYCLISTS

Boys of Appleton who are interested in cycling will have an opportunity to win prizes in the first annual bicycle field day sponsored by the Schlager Hardware Co. The field day will be held Saturday morning at Jones park and will be preceded by a bicycle parade on College-ave.

The youthful cyclists are to assemble at 8:30 at Lawrence college library for the parade on College-ave and the field events will start at 9 o'clock at the park. Prizes include sweaters, knives, flashlights, footballs and other articles which boys desire. They will be awarded for the best decorated and most unique bicycles in the parade as well as for the races and events at Jones park. Entry blanks must be signed by the boys and can be secured at the Schlager store and at the boys' division of the Y. M. C. A. Final plans for the field day will be completed early this week.

ter, Eskimo, Greyhound, Labrador, Pomeranian, Chesapeake Bay, Coach Rataam, Wolf Hound, Great Dane, Blood Hound and Airdale. In a large number of cases owners didn't know the breed of their dogs and cited such crosses as Bull and Poodle, Collie and Shepherd, Hound and Bull, Hound and Shepherd, Airdale and Hound, Airdale and Collie, Airdale and Police, and just plain mongrel.

Others with no idea of the breed of their dog simply put down the color, resulting in a number of cards giving the pedigree as black and tan, black and brown, brindle, yellow and blue. "Two Bits" was the oddest canine name registered. There were many other rather strange names, such as Dempsey, Nago, Bumps, Lady Diana, Karo, Gretchen, Peter Pan, Sin Long, and Gladly. Peggy was the most common name on the books.

WHERE LOWEST PRICES PREVAIL

INTER weather has teeth that play havoc with unprotected wood and metal surfaces. When the wind-blown snow and sleet strike such a surface, rotting and rusting begins immediately and rapidly. In an unbelievably short time there will be expensive repairs.

Moisture cannot penetrate beneath the durable coat that protects a painted surface. Decay and deterioration cannot take place. The savings on repair bills is more than the worth of the cost of good paint. Buy your paints here, we will save you many dollars, on paint that we know is good. Paint up now, before the bad weather sets in.

THE SHAME CITIZEN

A new species of the genus "citizen" has put in an appearance.

He is the citizen who takes out his patriotism, not in "pointing with pride," but in pointing with shame.

He is happiest when he is the most bowed down by the errors and faults and frailties of his country. He waves the flag in order to hold it out where he can cast mud at it with the most accurate aim.

His motto is a slight amendment of Stephen Decatur's. It is: "My country! If she could only be right—but right or wrong, there's a flaw somewhere."

All things being equal in a complicated international question, he regards it as his impartial duty as a good American to assume that the other side is probably right. Take for example the war debt question.

The shame citizen is able completely to ignore the fact that every European nation grabbed what it could at the peace table, while Uncle Sam alone kept his hands out of the viands and announced that he was not there to feast and build future wars by his gluttony, but was interested in making a peace that would last. Because we try to collect part of our loans the shame citizen looks upon the United States as the blood profiteer, the one great criminal who exploited the travail of mankind heartlessly for his own benefit and made booty of its garments upon Calvary.

He regards every taxpayer as worthy of "mercy" except the American, who must pay war loan installments for many years to come. If there are two sets of figures on capacity to pay, one set up by French and American experts and agreed upon, the other put out as propaganda from cancellation sources abroad, he will seize avidly the statistics built upon emotion instead of fact. They put Uncle Sam in a slightly worse light. They bolster the "shylock" myth.

If any one were to suggest to this citizen that Americans should dodge taxes and just debts as some Frenchmen would have France continue to do, he would be indignant. If any one were to suggest to him that we should keep an army like the French, he would rise like a righteous brood hen to resent this effort to disturb international peace. He has only one kind of looking glass, and it reflects everything at home in shame red and everything abroad in the pink of martyr perfection. He seeks not to understand Europe and the point of view of its people, but to fit an exalted illusion of European goodness into contrast with his own conviction of American baseness.

There is a perfectly respectable school of American opinion which holds that remission of the war debts or a large part of them might prove an impetus to American trade through more rapid recovery of customer nations, and thus actually prove a profitable transaction. There is another school which doubts whether the large sums to be transferred in later years under the debt settlements can be handed over without serious injury to international exchange. These favorers of cancellation do not abandon their belief in the propriety of America's collection; they question merely its practicability.

The shame citizen on the contrary attacks his country's motives. His latest obsession, and the one which pleases him most, is that the United States by some mysterious conspiracy within itself has entered upon a sinister plot to control the world for the next sixty-two years by manipulation of the war debt club. It is refreshing, in contrast to the eager pessimism of this kind of American, to read in the London Spectator a sane estimate of the view of his countrymen by and large: "To them much that has happened in Europe since the armistice has been incomprehensible. To them the old war spirit appears to burn fiercely, and they have no intention of remitting debts, justly incurred, to enable European nations to spend further sums on armaments."

THE SCOTT STORY

In these days when a reaction is setting in against the attempt of big and little iconoclasts to belittle and besmudge the characters of American history revered in our school houses these many years, there will probably be a grateful reception for the news that at least one "myth" is to be saved from the fire. Abraham Lincoln's eleventh-hour rescue of William Scott, the sleeping boy sentinel, has been attacked but to all appearances successfully defended.

Rev. William E. Barton in his new biography of Lincoln said that as far as he could discover there was no documentary evidence that the wartime president had saved this lad from a firing squad. He would have to put it down as a romantic and quite unsubstantiated piece of Civil war fiction. In reply there has risen in wrath one Luke Ferriter, aged eighty-two, claiming to have been a member of the firing squad just saved from shooting young Scott on the morning of September 8, 1861. He has produced as evidence of the event a news item completely describing the case in the New York Times on the following day, and the full text of the pardon with an account of the circumstances in a Vermont history of the war covering the service of the regiment in which Scott enlisted.

So much for the authenticity of that alleged "myth." Now if some one will oblige by turning up the diary of George Washington's father relative to the loss of a certain valuable cherry tree, youth may begin to breathe freely over its allusions again. These wholesome stories came from some source, and not necessarily a lying one merely because a latter day examiner cannot discover the papers.

INSECTS AND HUMANS

Humans, according to prominent scientists, face a death struggle with insects in which the chances for survival are with the insects. Man has inhabited the earth only 300,000 years while insects have existed upon it for 30,000,000 years and are therefore infinitely better equipped. The rapid rate of increase of insects above that of the human race brings the day ever more imminent when life may develop into a struggle for the mastery of the earth. Insects in this country already continually nullify the labor of 1,000,000 men. Man is in general unaware of this pending catastrophe or treats it as a joke. There is no excuse, however, for paying the way for such a result by neglecting the war against insects and failing to prosecute it with vigor.

TODAY'S POEM

By HAL COCHRAN

When green was first invented and 'twas spread around the grass, it must have pleased the eye of every soul who chanced to pass. 'Tis nature's favorite color, and a soothing one at best. That must be why all foliage with shades of green is blest.

Consider any lawnway, downy grass beneath the trees. Say, is there any place that tempts as much, to loiter at ease? The softness seems to call you, and you answer to the call. You know that on the spread of grass there's restfulness for all.

It sorta makes one wonder, when you think of parks and such. Are folk, who tend a lot of them, with true life out of touch? 'Tis true they spread their lawns in the open; in the nook. But, as to making things worth while, one point they overlook.

The green and soft-like blanket makes a person see the fun of stretching out upon it just to loaf beneath the sun. The thing I cannot understand, whenever the signs I pass, is why folk ever spoil the scene by "Please Keep Off the Grass."

May cut the army and navy. Before long they will be only a soldier paddling a canoe.

Davies is growling at the Senate which would like to fire him and keep a bulldog in his place.

New oil well in Mexico produces 5000 barrels a day, this being pretty good as a hole.

Lightning hit four fishermen in Atlantic City who should cut down on their fishing lites.

A mother is one who thinks she forgot where she hid her change when she knows William swiped it.

Only a few more weeks now until you'll be able to get home before the ice cream melts.

A small town is a place where the filling station is larger than the railway station.

Before the X-ray was discovered women were the only ones who could see through a man.

FLYING IN THE FACE OF DANGER

According to newspaper reports, some of the ammunition which exploded in the big New Jersey blast had been stored there since the Spanish War. Probably it was kept there by way of preparedness for an emergency.

Some people are about as careless or irresponsible in the matter of keeping dangerous things about the house as our army and navy authorities are in keeping explosives about the country.

Here are a few of the deadly things which no responsible householder should keep in the home or even bring into his home except under special guard or protection:

Carbolic acid (phenol).
Arsenic (Paris green, white arsenic, lead arsenite).Lysol (compound cresol solution).
Bichlorid of mercury (corrosive sublimate).Strychnin (in various pills, tablets, capsules or other forms which appeal to childish curiosity).
Wood alcohol (methyl alcohol. Wood naphtha).Lye.
Shooting implements or ammunition.Gas stove without proper flue connection.
These dangerous things figure in the majority of fatal accidents in the home.

Carbolic acid has its proper purpose, but is far too dangerous for anyone except a doctor to use. It is actually of no more value as an antiseptic than many harmless antiseptics, such as boric acid. Even in the dilute form, in solutions or saline, carbolic acid is a dangerous thing and often seriously retards the natural healing process; occasionally it causes gangrene or death of the injured tissues to which it is applied.

Lysol is notorious as a ready means of suicide for the hysterical or momentarily distraught. It is practically a crude carbolic acid. There is no better reason for using this preparation as an antiseptic than there is for using carbolic acid itself. Unscrupulous folk seem to be intrigued by the odors of these things, much as were the old-time surgeons by the horrendous odor of iodoform.

Corrosive sublimate, bichlorid of mercury, is no longer employed in surgical, medical or sanitary practice, at least not in contact with the body. For the disinfection of the hands or the skin, plain soap and water scrubbing will accomplish quite as much as this deadly poison can, so far as any purpose of domestic medicine, surgery or sanitation may be concerned.

The crime of keeping "toxic" tablets or other preparations containing strychnin about the house, to which I fear physicians are still accessory in some cases, is less popular today than it was a generation ago, though now and then a child's life is cruelly snuffed out through such criminal carelessness. The child finds the pretty pills or discovers the sugary coating and swallows the deadly poison before anyone notices. Presently convulsions ensue and death follows. Yet Tom, Dick and Harry is legally entitled to handle this deadly drug without restriction.

Lye, when used to clear a drain or for any other purpose should be used up immediately, and none left in the house. Many children have swallowed this caustic by mistake and suffered death or perhaps subsequent stricture of the esophagus.

QUESTIONS AND ANSWERS

Wine And Rheumatism

Is homemade wine made from black mission figs harmful or nourishing? Is it bad for a person that has syatic rheumatism? (S. H.)

Answer—It is harmful and far less nourishing than the figs or less than milk. It is bad for any person, whether he has syatic or not.

Old But Brains

In your article about circulation you said that brainy people were more subject to cold hands and feet. Thanks. (Olive C.)

Answer—But not all the dumbbells are nice and warm.

The Question Box

BY FREDERIC J. HASKIN

Frederic J. Haskin is employed by this paper to handle the inquiries of our readers, and you are invited to call upon him as freely and as often as you please. Ask anything that is a matter of fact and the authority will be quoted you. There is no charge for this service. Ask what you want, sign your name and address, and enclose two cents in stamps for return postage. Address the Appleton Post-Crescent Information Bureau, Frederic J. Haskin, Director, Washington, D. C.

Q. Does anything except the sun produce infra red rays? M. L. R.

A. Infra red rays are those having less than 350 billion vibrations per second. All of these rays are heat rays. A piece of iron being heated produces different rays as it loses its cold gray color, first the infra red (imperfectible), then the red, which are visible, then orange, yellow, etc., to white which includes all of the colors.

Q. How are citrus fruits which are picked before they are entirely yellow colored? M. V.

A. This coloring of citrus fruit, which has attained physiological maturity without taking on the color generally associated with ripeness is obviously a legitimate practice. In the course of the experiments it was found that grapefruit and oranges can readily be colored by the exhaust from a gasoline engine, by ethylene, as well as by the gas formed by the incomplete combustion of kerosene or other similar petroleum product. Grapefruit color more readily than oranges, and early oranges, such as Parson Brown, assume the characteristic golden-yellow color more quickly than does the spring-maturing Valencia. Oranges begin to show the desired color within 48 to 72 hours after treatment is begun.

Q. Are France and England willing to waive visa fees? M. B.

A. France has declined to enter into a reciprocal agreement for waiver of fees. The British Government has not so far accepted any proposal for either reduction or waiver of fees.

Q. When was the first expedition fitted out to find the Northwest Passage? N. G.

A. Probably the earliest attempt to discover the Northwest Passage and incidentally to define the location of the North Pole was made by a Portuguese named Corte Real about 1500.

In 1855 a company was formed in London called "The Fellowship for the Discovery of the Northwest Passage."

Q. Where was the first botanical garden established? C. E. M.

A. One in Padua, Italy, established in 1545 is considered the first.

Q. Who started pitching horseshoes? J. P. G.

A. The game of horseshoes is based on quito, which is a pastime resembling the ancient discus-throwing of Greece. Few traces of a game resembling quito can be found on the continent of Europe and its origin may be sought for on the borders of Scotland and England. There are references to it in the Midlands, dating from the beginning of the 15th century. Ascham, in his "Toxophilus" (1545) refers to the game as being played chiefly by the working classes who often used horseshoes for want of quito.

Q. What States have flags in the court of the Post Office Department in Washington? A. M. B.

A. All the States are represented except Kansas and Nevada.

Q. Should blossoms be left on a lilac bush after they fade, or should they be removed? V. A.

A. The Bureau of Plant Industry says that it is customary to take the blossoms of the lilac bush off as soon as they begin to decay, as some vitality is lost in forming seed.

PEASANTS IN AMERICAN FICTION

A great admirer of the Russian, Polish, Norwegian and other novelists of northern Europe asked the question why no American writes an American "Growth of the Soil" or an American "The Peasants," the implication being that there is no one in America who can write novels of that sort.

And that implication is probably correct, but it does not tell the whole story. An American cannot write an American "Growth of the Soil" or an American "The Peasants" because there are no peasants in America.

There are of course peasants here and there, but there is no peasantry here. It would be possible to write the story of an individual peasant here but that would not be at all the same. The great books by the great writers of northern Europe are predicated on the existence of a social class that has its roots far back in the centuries and that is as fixed an institution as the institution of royalty. That is very different from writing a story about an individual peasant who happens to stray into the American scene.

PEASANTRY IS DREAM But in spite of the fact that America has no peasantry, there is a type of novelist who assumes that it has, in spite of the facts to the contrary. During the past half a dozen years there has been a flood of books about the soil, some of them legitimate and honestly describing the American scene. But in a great many of these the writers began with preconceived notions. They were saturated with the "peasant literature" of the great Europeans and so they determined to write "peasant literature" for America. They are full of contempt for the people who did not write like the Europeans and so the set about Russifying or Norwegianizing the American farmer, converting him into a peasant.

But there is a vast difference between a farmer and a peasant. The American farmer is sometimes enormously ignorant — there is no need of denying that.

But he never lives in a peasant atmosphere. No matter how ignorant he may be individually, there are thousands currents and cross currents of wider things in the very air of his community. And the ignorant farmer has a son who becomes governor of his state or president of the United States.

That is vastly different from getting into peasantry. In the American rural scene ignorance is sporadic and accidental, as it is in slum districts, the cities. It is not an eternal quality and a normal state of life, as the case with the genuine peasant. It does not date back a thousand years and the quality of peasantry not handed down from father to son as a title to a crown.

And there is where the American novelists who try to give America peasantry go wrong. They can't make the American farmer over into the Russian peasant, but they can make themselves over into the Russian novelist. There is an artificial bridge between the two and it is artificial and insincere to try to transpose a bit of Russia or of Poland or of Norway to America.

FACTS ARE BEST Such critics as Mencken are a ways talking about "the American peasantry," and that has probably had the effect of having uncritical Mencken worshippers try to write novels about "the American peasantry." But Mencken is too intelligent a man to take his own words literally. He is right for the European peasant is a term, is perfectly legitimate, but a true novelist does not deal in figurative speech. He is supposed to deal in facts.

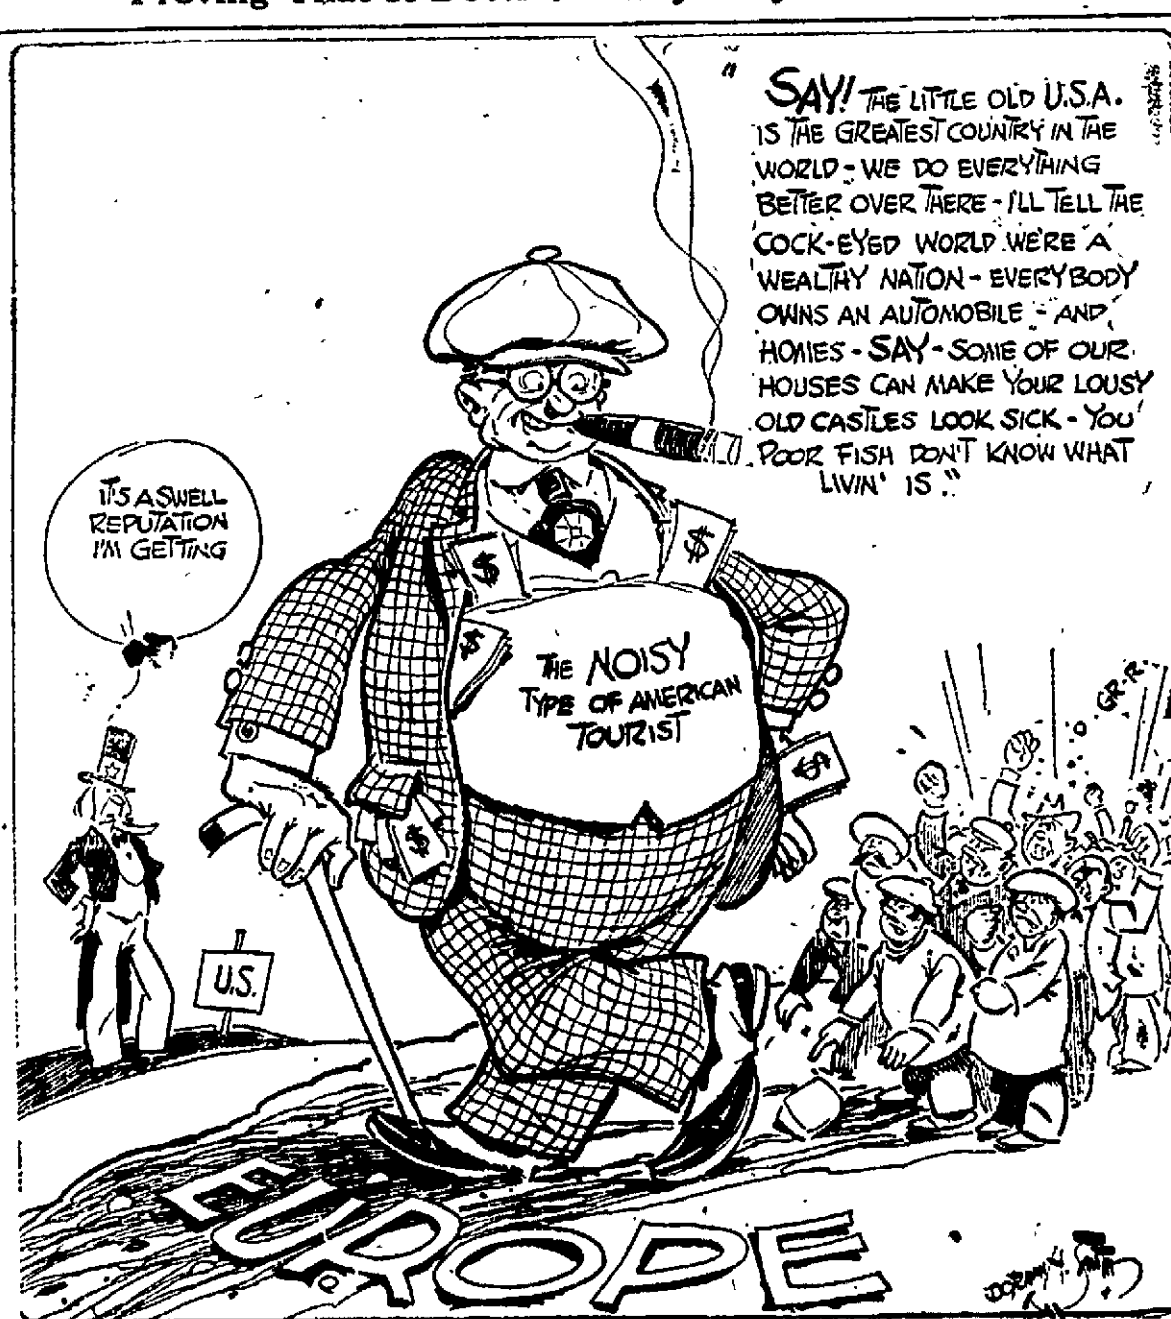

It is entirely legitimate for an American novelist to portray rural ignorance or rural vice or rural narrowness or anything else rural, but the harm comes when he tries to do it in the manner of the European. That manner is right for the European because it is based on the facts in northern Europe, but it is wrong for the American because it is not based on facts here. True in isolated cases, it is false without universal meaning or significance because there is no peasantry here. The American novelist is under obligation to look with his own eyes and not with the eyes of a Russian or a Norwegian.

VETERINARIANS WANT LENROOT FOR SENATOR

Madison—(P)—Dr. O. H. Eliason, secretary of the Wisconsin Veterinary Medical association, today issued a statement to members of the association endorsing Senator Irvine L. Lenroot's candidacy for re-nomination.

"Governor Blaine alone was to blame for failure of the legislature to give the farmers what they prayed for in 1923," Dr. Eliason stated. "Prosperity, to you veterinarians, must first reach the farmers. Stick to a man who does things for the farmer, and leave alone a 'shouter' who has promised much but given nothing. "Vote for Senator Lenroot, and tell your friends, too, where their bread gets 'buttered.' "As the matter of selecting a Senator to represent this state for the next six years is now a fit subject of discussion, and as the agricultural welfare is of vital importance to you, I feel it a duty to sound a warning before you cast your primary vote," the statement read.

"In every move for constructive agricultural legislation Senator Lenroot has been forceful in pushing it forward into law; one of his last efforts was that of procuring additional funds for prosecuting the T. B. eradication in cattle. "Do not let yourselves be blinded by the everlasting calamity howlers who are handing out warnings about things that do not exist."

HIGHER THAN WOOLWORTH BUILDING

Year's Sales of Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound

MRS. ED. DAUGHERTY
1308 ORCHARD AVENUE, MUSCATINE, IOWA

The Woolworth Building in New York City, which towers 792 feet above the street, is the highest building in the United States. If all the bottles of Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound sold in 1925 could be placed end to end, they would make a column as high as the Woolworth Building with enough left over to extend from Lynn, Massachusetts to Cleveland, Ohio. In many little villages as in many thriving cities along the route, we are glad to tell others about Lydia

E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound. In a recent letter, Mrs. Daugherty says, "I was ill for four months before I took your medicine. I found one of your books at my front door and read it. It seemed to fit my case, so I began taking Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound, and after I took the third bottle, I found relief. I am on my eleventh bottle and I don't have that trouble any more, and feel like a different woman. I recommend the Vegetable Compound to every one I see who has trouble like mine. I am willing to answer any letters from women asking about the Vegetable Compound."—Mrs. Ed. DAUGHERTY, 1308 Orchard Avenue, Muscatine, Iowa.

Mrs. Carr Also Helped

Muncie, Indiana—"I could not get around to do my work. I took treatments and they did me no good. I had always heard of Lydia E. Pinkham's medicine and I thought it would be like all the others, but I found out after I took half a bottle, as I have proved it wonderful. I am taking it yet and I can do all my work. I am feeling fine now, and it is your good medicines that have done it. I tell every woman of the good I get from taking the Vegetable Compound and from using the Sensitive Wash."—Mrs. P. W. Carr, 721 West Powers St., Muncie, Indiana.

BANKERS CINCH FLAG IN SOFT BALL LEAGUE

Defeat Clerks and Take Two Game Lead in Twilight Loop

Kaukauna—The Bankers Soft ball team practically cinched the Twilight League pennant for the second half of the season when it decisively defeated the Clerks, 8 to 3. The Bankers played a stellar game, while the Clerks fielded at times had a tendency to be ragged. The Clerks pitched a good game for the Bankers. Two of the Clerks' three runs were due to errors by Bankers. The money men clouted the ball hard and performed all around like champions. They only have to meet one more team and it is more than probable that they will play Homan in the "little world series" after the regular season is over.

One Banker scored in the first inning and another came home in the second. The Clerks started in the third and Van Lieshout scored. The Clerks scored two more in the fourth taking a 3 to 2 lead on the game when Hass and Pahnke both scored. Oim hit in the Bankers' half of the fourth and he scored when Bayoregon clouted the ball into the far center. The money men got another in the fifth and then sealed things by bringing in four runs in the sixth. This was the end of the Clerks for they were unable to do a thing in the first of the seventh.

The Bankers remain undefeated in this half of the league season while the Clerks are in second place, two games behind them.

LARGE CROWD AT MISSION MEET

Kaukauna People Attend Annual Conference at Mission House

Kaukauna—Many members of the Immanuel Reformed church of this city attended the eleventh annual missionary conference of the Sheboygan district at the Mission college at Plymouth all of last week. Two hundred and twenty-seven delegates from all over the district attended the conference. The Rev. E. L. Worthman of this city led the morning devotion at all the week. The important speaker of the week was the Rev. E. V. Casselman, D. D. of Philadelphia. He spoke on the activities of the Reformed church. Another leader was the Prof. L. C. Hesser, D. D. of the Mission college. The Rev. Paul Grosshuesch of Sheboygan was elected president of the conference. The largest number of delegates ever at a conference at the college attended this one. It was the eighth and last district conference to be held in the United States this year. Those from Kaukauna who attended the conference were: the Misses Ethel Rockenbach, Dorothy Haas, Blanche Jirikowic, Alice Jirikowic, Wilma Klumb, Marion Klumb, Mr. and Mrs. William Klumb Jr., Alfred Klumb and the Rev. and Mrs. E. L. Worthman and son Edmund.

HOLD SALESMAN ON BAD CHECK CHARGE

Kaukauna—F. L. Lonsberry of Madison was held in this city Monday by the local police on a charge of passing worthless checks here and in Appleton. Lonsberry was the representative of an ice refrigerator company and was attempting to sell refrigerators to the proprietors of local meat markets. He is said to have passed worthless checks at Bayoregon and Driessen markets. Both markets got in touch with the Madison bank and it was said found he had no account there and when Lonsberry appeared at the store again later in the day for a final talk on the refrigerators he was arrested by the local police and taken to the police station. It was later found that there was a warrant out in Appleton for him for passing $102 in worthless checks in that city. He was held here pending the arrival of his brother from Manitowoc.

KAUKAUNA YOUTH ON U. OF M. TEAM

Floyd Schroeder Called for Practice With Eastern Grid Team

Kaukauna—Floyd "Fitch" Schroeder of this city is included in Coach Byrd's call for football men at the University of Maryland to report for the start of football practice at College park Monday morning, Sept. 6. Coach Byrd is football coach at the University of Maryland. Schroeder is numbered among the thirty-nine players who will make up the varsity for Maryland this year. In speaking of Schroeder the Washington (D. C.) Post says: "In addition to other candidates for a backfield position is 'Fitch' Schroeder, 198 pound full back, who was ineligible last year, but who made his presence felt as a member of the second team." It is quite sure that the local man will secure a regular position on the team. He is the heaviest back on the team and was playing full back regular during spring practice.

Maryland plays the University of Chicago at Chicago on Oct. 9.

Again commenting on the backfield the Post says: "An indication of what Byrd thinks of some of his backfield recruits was given last spring when the Old Liners staged a couple of practice battles with the Navy grid-ders at Annapolis. He used Kessler at quarter, Parsons and Snyder as half-backs, and Schroeder as fullback in these tilts and this rookie quartet proved more than the midshipmen could handle effectively."

SHUT DOWN PART OF NEW DAM TO MAKE REPAIRS

Kaukauna—Number 4 flume at the new Rapids Croche power plant has been shut down while repairs are being made on one of the guide vanes which was stuck. Only three of the four units can be used now. Officials plan to have the entire plant in running order again in a few days. The vane had become so tight that it could not be moved.

KAUKAUNA GIRL WEDS APPLETON YOUNG-MAN

Kaukauna—Miss Malinda Wyro of Kaukauna and Roland Thomack of Appleton were married at Immanuel Reformed church at 2 o'clock Saturday afternoon by the Rev. E. L. Worthman. Attendants were Arthur Wyro and Pearl Bronert. Only the immediate family and intimate friends witnessed the wedding ceremony.

A reception for friends and relatives followed the ceremony, at the John Hiesman home in this city. A wedding dance was given in the evening at Elk hall on Second-st. The couple will live in Florida.

TEAR OFF TOP OF OLD KONKAPOT CREEK BRIDGE

Kaukauna—The top of the old Konkapot bridge has been removed and the piers are being prepared for the new structure. Two of the piers have been widened. Work on the bridge is progressing rapidly and it will be completed in a few weeks.

TOURISTS RETURN FROM NORTHERN TRIP

New London—Mr. and Mrs. Fay R. Smith and Mr. and Mrs. Jake Bentz returned to Duluth, Superior and Port Arthur on the Canadian side. After reaching Port Arthur on Lake Superior they came southward to Minneapolis, following the Mississippi river as far as LaCrosse, then crossing the state to their home city. The trip was about fifteen hundred miles.

TWILIGHT GAMES END WITHIN WEEK

Members of League Hope to Continue Schedule Throughout Winter

Special to Post-Crescent.

New London—After one more week of play there will in all probability be no more twilight games of soft ball. So much interest has been created, however that it is probable the games be continued throughout the winter in some building secured for the purpose. Many of the league players are anxious to continue play through the winter.

Monday night's game between the New York Lifes and Soda Grills proved an interesting tilt. The New York Lifes winning 1-0. Pooley, the pitcher for the New York Lifes, whizzed the ball across in great shape and with a good support from his infield. He pitched a shutout game. Meiklejohn of the Grills held his own but the one run of the New York Lifes secured was enough to beat him. Batteries were: New York Lifes; Pooley and Much; Soda Grills, Meiklejohn and Fuerst.

On Tuesday night Cline's Furniture play the High Lifes. These two teams have three games to play off. Next week will no doubt see the end of this season's twilight ball.

NEW HOLSTEIN PICNIC IS LARGELY ATTENDED

Special to Post-Crescent.

Chilton—A largely attended picnic was held at New Holstein on Sunday under auspices of the city band and the American Legion. A parade was held in the morning, and in the afternoon a ball game was played between Chilton and Port Washington. The former winning by a score of 10 to 2. Senator Lenroot spoke to a large audience in the afternoon.

Many Chilton people attended, among them being Mr. and Mrs. Leo Fox, Mr. and Mrs. William Knaf, Mrs. Anna Glenn and Miss Frances Glenn, Mr. and Mrs. Herman Voss, Mr. and Mrs. Michael Miller, Mr. and Mrs. George Berger, Mr. and Mrs. Merle Mortimer, Mr. and Mrs. Joe Grassold, Mr. and Mrs. Ernest Rau, Mr. and Mrs. George Hume, Mr. and Mrs. John Hume, Mr. and Mrs. William Aebischer, and Mrs. Frederick Aebischer, and others.

William Schaefer and daughter, Miss Ruby, were in Beaver Dam Sunday, where the latter attended a reunion of her class mates at Oshkosh Normal school.

Herbert Hahn, Wilbur Johnson and Donald Morrissey of Appleton were callers at the G. M. Morrissey home Sunday.

Mr. and Mrs. Louis Youngbeck and daughter, Anna Marie, visited relatives in Milwaukee on Sunday.

Mr. and Mrs. George Wolfe, Mr. and Mrs. Gordon Wolfe and their guests, Mr. and Mrs. W. Antiang of St. Louis, were visitors at the William Schaefer home on Sunday.

Mr. and Mrs. E. J. Stewart and three children of Surin, spent the weekend at the home of the latter's mother, Mrs. Allen Mortimer.

Miss Frances Glenn, who has been visiting her mother, Mrs. Anna Glenn, for the past week, returned to Beloit Monday, where she will resume her duties as principal of the Junior high school.

Mrs. A. Barkhausen of Mequon was a visitor at the home of Mrs. Anna Glenn during the past week.

LEMON JUICE BEST TO WHITEN SKIN

The only harmless way to bleach the skin white is to mix the juice of two lemons with three ounces of Orchard White, which any druggist will supply for a few cents. Shake well in a bottle and you will have a whole quart of the most wonderful skin whitener.

Massage this sweetly fragrant lemon bleach into the face, neck, arms and hands. It can not irritate. Famous stage beauties use it to bring that clear, youthful skin and rosy-white complexion, also as a freckle, sunburn and tan bleach. You must mix this remarkable lotion yourself. It can not be bought ready to use because it acts best immediately after it is prepared.

LOCAL RESIDENTS WILL MOVE TO MINNEAPOLIS

New London—After having lived here for many years, Mrs. Myrtle Swift and her mother, Mrs. Ball, will leave soon for Minneapolis where they will make their future home. Mrs. Swift recently sold her home on Beacon-ave to E. F. Ramm of this city, and has chosen Minneapolis, be- cause of the fact that Miss Bernice Swift, her daughter, is associated as teacher and student in the Cief studio in that city. Mrs. Swift and Mrs. Ball have many friends here, the former being for several years in the millinery business here.

MANAWA FINDS NEED OF OLD POSTING LAW

New London—Prohibition may come and go but Manawa still finds need of the good old posting law. At a recent special meeting of the village board in that town citizens presented a request for the posting of between twelve and fifteen men, who in that bone dry town still are able to find wine that is red. The village board granted the request and the names have been posted in all soft drink parlors in the village.

AGED RESIDENT DIES EARLY MONDAY MORNING

New London—James Croak, 80, died at 1 o'clock Monday morning at a Manawa hospital where he had been a patient for a week. He was born in Milwaukee Jan. 31, 1846, but went to Stockbridge with his parents where he lived until 1897. He was married in Stockbridge in 1873 to Kate McCabe. Ten children were born to them, six sons and four daughters, only six of whom are living now. They are Mrs. John McHugh, Hortonville; Mrs. Robert Smith and Mrs. Ralph Conroy of Manawa; John and Walter of this city and Dominic of Alberta, Wash.

The funeral will be held at 9 o'clock Wednesday morning at the Parish hall, with Rev. Kolbe officiating.

CHRISTY STORE CLUB WILL CONDUCT PICNIC

Special to Post-Crescent.

New London—The Christy Store club, composed of the store forces of the local Christy store and the establishment at Waupaca, will hold a picnic Wednesday at Camp Cleghorn, Chain o' Lakes. The stores in both cities will be closed for the entire day. A three day trip into the northern lake region is being enjoyed this week by Mr. and Mrs. M. C. Traylor, Mr. and Mrs. Herbert Ritchie, Mr. and Mrs. Frank Zaugg and Mr. and Mrs. Harry Christy.

NEW LONDON SOCIETY

New London—The Women's Benevolent association will hold a public card party Tuesday evening at the home of Mrs. Edward Steingraber. A committee on arrangements has been appointed. Lunch will be served. Five hundred will be played, and prizes awarded.

A picnic for members of Ku Klux Klan, their wives and families, was held Sunday on Mosquito hill. No public demonstration of any kind was held, the day being devoted to matters of a social nature. A number of delegates have been appointed to attend the convention which is to be held in Fond du Lac Sept. 18-19. Representatives attended the picnic from all surrounding towns.

Mrs. Emil Oestreich, Beacon-ave, was hostess at a bridge party Monday afternoon. Eight tables were in play. Garden flowers were used in decorating. Mrs. E. C. Jost won high honors and Mrs. M. A. Borchard second honors. Among the guests were Mrs. Bradford of Wisconsin Rapids and Miss Jennie Komers of Ripon. Mrs. Oestreich was assisted by her daughter, Mrs. Robert Gardner, of Racine, who has been a guest at the Oestreich home the past week.

Miss Melda Pelzer, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. E. J. Pelzer, Beacon-ave, and Otto Krueger of Wausau, were married Tuesday noon at the home of the bride's parents. The marriage took place in the company of a small group of relatives and was performed by the Rev. A. D. Spiering of Emman-

Michigan Man Gains 50 Lbs. As Dreco Overcomes His Ailments

Says he was a walking skeleton, lived on bread and milk. Now has wonderful appetite. Sleeps better. Headaches, backache, dizzy spells and stomach troubles disappear.

"Dreco has certainly given me a wonderful appetite," is the enthusiastic testimony of Mr. Louis Moezley, a well liked citizen who lives at 316 Hubbard Street, Battle Creek, Michigan.

"Before I tried this wonderful tonic I lived on bread and milk and even that caused me almost unbearable misery. Indigestion, biliousness and constipation almost worried me to death and I went down until I was a walking skeleton and my wife had to nurse me like a baby and I was always tired and listless. I frequently suffered from severe headaches and dizzy spells, and backache crippled me up something terrible."

"I was very nervous, couldn't sleep at night but would just toss and roll and get up in the morning as tired as when I went to bed. My tongue would be coated white and I'd have a stale nasty taste in my mouth."

"Now thanks to DRECO I am in fine health. Feel stronger than for a long time and have gained all my lost flesh and more besides. My stomach digests anything and the headaches, back pains, dizzy spells and bilious attacks are only memories now. I'm telling everyone about DRECO and what it has done for me."

"Dreco" is made from the pure unadulterated juices of 12 remarkable plants, roots, barks and leaves. Scientifically blended by the David H. Fulton & Bro., Baltimore, they act directly on the stomach, liver, kidneys and bowels, and tend to relieve constipation, headaches, rheumatism, catarrh, biliousness, dizzy spells, heart fluttering, gas on stomach and other troubles.

Mr. W. V. Martin the well-known Expert from the Dreco Laboratories now at Schlintz Bros. downtown drug store is telling scores of people every day how to take Dreco for best results. Go to see him.

COOPERATION OF STATE NEEDED TO SAVE WILD LIFE

Lenroot Flays Blaine's Statement That "Conservation Is Bunk"

La Crosse (AP)—Conservation can be promoted in Wisconsin by "intelligent" policies at Madison and cooperation with the federal government at Washington, Senator Irvine L. Lenroot said in an address here Thursday night.

"My opponent has characterized conservation as 'bunk' but I tell you that conservation of our natural beauty and our natural advantages which have made Wisconsin a playground for the nation is one of our most important problems," Senator Lenroot said.

"You all know of the attitude of Governor Blaine on the Wisconsin Bottoms and Upper Mississippi Wild Life and Game Refuge Bill. I need not remind a La Crosse audience of that."

"Throughout the nation there has been a quickening of interest in conservation matters which the present governor of Wisconsin has failed to sense. How many of the wild things of woods and water, field and sky have disappeared from Wisconsin. With intelligent conservation policies at Madison and cooperation with the federal government at Washington many of these can be brought back."

"No land is waste land that furnishes a haven for wild life. Far from thinking that conservation is 'bunk' the national conscience is awake to the necessity of preservation and conservation. States and the federal government are giving thought to conservation and sanctuaries are being established throughout the nation."

"Congress soon will pass the Nebraska public shooting grounds bill, but unless the next governor of Wisconsin shows a more sympathetic attitude than the present governor, Wisconsin will get little benefit from the bill."

TREE RINGS HELP IN FORECASTING WEATHER

Saw Angelo, Tex.—H. A. Halbert, West Texas plant wizard who is famous for remarkable results of plant grafting and development, has a peculiar and individual method for making weather predictions.

"For a number of years he has issued predictions covering rain periods a year in advance. His predictions are based on the air tides, similar to the ocean tides, caused by the 'law of attraction of gravity.'"

"He goes to the heart of an oak tree for many of his predictions. In an oak tree," Halbert explains, "are rings plainly seen when the tree is sawed into cross sections. The wide rings denote the wet years and the narrow rings tell of the dry seasons."

"I have traced back Texas weather 127 years in this manner. There is a weather cycle every decade. Every year ending in the figure seven is a dry one and years ending in zero, one, two and three are the wettest generally."

"Halbert's predictions apply to points within 1000 miles of this district. They allow a latitude of 72 hours for rain to fall. These predictions, Halbert claims, would be absolutely true were it not for the air currents which greatly interfere with and often prevent rains from falling at any certain locality by blowing away the clouds brought in by the air tides."

CAR IS STOLEN WHILE GIRL ATTENDS DANCE

Special to Post-Crescent. Weyauwega—While Rose Libman and several friends of Fremont were attending a dance at Gerold's hall here Saturday evening, her father's Chevrolet coupe, which she had left parked on Main-st. was stolen. The number on the Libman car was C23-944. It was a 1924 model and the engine number was 117-8729.

At about 2 o'clock Sunday morning morning, Village Marshal B. L. Bellinger noticed a Chevrolet touring car parked near the Presbyterian church. The car was still there that noon, and in looking up the records he found that it belonged to Edwin Peters, route 6, Appleton. He immediately called the Appleton chief of police, who had been notified that the Peters' car had been stolen late Saturday. The Libman car had not been located at the last report and the thieves are being sought. It is thought that the thief left the touring car and took the coupe.

MADGE BELLAMY IN "WINGS OF YOUTH" AT THE NEW BIJOU WEDNESDAY AND THURSDAY.

STAGE AND SCREEN

"WINGS OF YOUTH" STRONG SOCIETY DRAMA, COMING

Motion picture fans who like their drama in fine settings will be pleased when they see "Wings of Youth," the William Fox production at the New Bijou Wednesday and Thursday.

With Madge Bellamy and Ethel Clayton as the central figures, the picture tells a story of modern society, its mad tendencies and the resulting heartaches.

In addition to Miss Bellamy and Miss Clayton, Katherine Perry and Marian Harlan, who are among the most beautiful girls on the screen, are in the cast and all of them wear an assortment of gowns that would put a Parisian modiste to shame.

The story concerns a widow who goes to extremes to save her daughters from the jazz-mad whirl of so-called society. Miss Clayton, playing the mother, decides on a drastic move. She sets a pace of dissipation and revelry that shows her daughters the folly of their course and eventually brings them back to their senses.

There is plenty of love interest in the picture as well as comedy relief for a strong dramatic theme. Among the main members of the cast are Robert Cain, Charles Farrell and Freeman Wood.

"THE CAT'S PAJAMAS" A DELIGHTFUL COMEDY

Brilliant in effects and charming in story. That's "The Cat's Pajamas" which starts Thursday at Fischers Appleton Theatre. Betty Thomson, co-starred with Ricardo Cortez, is as sweet and lovable as she's ever been. The picture, essentially dramatic, contains tremendous heart-tug, pathos and humor intermingled through the scenes like sunshine and rain.

Betty appears as a tiny "working-girl," a mere child of a child whose love for her invalid father, Theodore Roberts, returned to the screen after a protracted siege of convalescence, is a thing of beauty. She is her true self—half child, half woman. Roberts, always a magnificent actor, proves that despite a long illness, his old power remains undiminished. He plays Miss Bronson's parent with sympathetic understanding rarely excelled on stage or screen.

Richard Cortez, the eccentric opera tenor, Don Cesare Gracco, gives one of the best performances of his career.

reer. Cortez carries off the love scenes with charm, strength and a versatility which confirms the lavish praise heaped on him in "The Pony Express."

Enacting the part of a dancer we find Arlette Marchal, the beautiful Parisienne, first seen on our screen with Gloria Swanson in "Madame Sans Gene." Recently she appeared in "Born to the West." Her performance in "The Cat's Pajamas," one of the picture's most difficult roles, leaves nothing to be desired. Acrobatic stunts, comedy and stage show round out the entertaining program.

MARION FAIRFAX MAKES DEBUT AS PRODUCER

In making her debut as a film producer in "Old Loves and New," at the Elite today and Wednesday Marion Fairfax disproves the theory that making movies is exclusively a man's job.

Every feature of "Old Loves and New" reflects dramatic and entertainment value of exceptionally high order. In bringing to the screen the adaptation of C. M. Hull's "The Desert Healer," which, in reading form, enjoyed a circulation of 8,000,000 readers, the task of preserving the atmosphere and vivid drama of the book has been expertly accomplished.

Lewis Stone and Barbara Bedford are the characters around whom the love story revolves. Stone falls in love with the wife of the man who has stolen his wife and cast her aside. Both he and the woman fight against the inexorable will that draws them toward each other in a tightening bond of mutual love and admiration. In the end Stone as a climax to a tempestuous love tangle, carries off the woman in true primitive fashion.

There have been stranger tangles in real life. The author and the producer have combined their talents to give complete credibility to this stirring romance.

YOUTH KILLED, TWO HURT AS TOURIST HITS TRUCK

WAUPACA BOY IS CRUSHED UNDER WRECK

Missouri Car Hits Boy's Machine and Tips It Over in Ditch

Ralph Johnson, 9 year old son of Mr. and Mrs. John Johnson, 209 S. Franklin-st., Waupaca, was instantly killed, and two others boys, Gordon Doerfler, 10, and Raymond Johanknecht, 18, also of Waupaca, were injured when a truck in which they were riding was struck by a small coupe containing Mr. and Mrs. Harry Bird, Parnell, Mo., on highway 18 near Waupaca at 2:30 Monday afternoon.

The accident occurred when the delivery truck, owned by the Star bakery of Waupaca, containing the three boys, was returning east to Waupaca after making a trip to Amherst. They were about two miles west of Waupaca, on highway 18, when they met the Bird coupe. According to the boys they crowded their machine over to the extreme right side of the road, but were struck in the left side by the coupe.

The truck turned over in the road, pinning young Johnson beneath it. He suffered a crushed chest, and a doctor who examined the body later said that he had died instantly. All of the boys were thrown out of the truck. The Doerfler boy, is paralyzed from his hips down and his right leg is broken. His parents, Mr. and Mrs. G. Doerfler, own the Star bakery. Raymond Johanknecht, son of Mr. and Mrs. Albert Johanknecht, R. 7, Waupaca, who was driving the truck, suffered severe lacerations on his right arm.

The boys were taken to Waupaca by a passing motorist. Occupants of

POLICE WARN AUTOISTS TO TEST BRAKES

Have your brakes tested! In conjunction with national safety campaigns and in the interest of specifically avoiding accidents in Appleton police are urging that motorists keep themselves informed as to the condition of the brakes on their automobiles.

Although there is at present no city ordinance directly affecting this issue the importance to human life in being able to stop an automobile within a reasonable distance is so great that it devolves upon automobile owners to cooperate with the police powers in every possible manner where potential accidents may be avoided by a reasonable amount of care, police believe.

At present, where flagrant carelessness is exhibited by automobile owners in the matter of insufficient brake control the police can resort to arrests under reckless driving charges, it was stated at police headquarters.

KILL SAVAGE DOG WHEN HE MENACES CHILDREN

A valuable bull dog was killed near the Junction Greenhouses on Saturday, when he broke his leash and ran amuck in the neighborhood. The dog was known to be ugly for some time and was chained. When he escaped he started molesting children, biting and snarling at everything in sight. A policeman was called and the animal was shot.

the coupe were not injured and returned immediately to Waupaca.

Just a few hours after this accident Mr. and Mrs. Doerfler's 3-year-old son Everett was injured when his father struck him in the eye with a ladle which his father was using to remove bread from an oven in his bakery. The lad was not seriously hurt.

Lincoln's Son Regular Hermit, Old Servant Says

BY CHARLES P. STEWART

Washington—For more than half a century a certain quaint old negro, John H. Plummer by name, worked for the late Robert T. Lincoln, as caretaker in the latter's big house in the Georgetown district of Washington.

"An' at the end of 'that time,' he adds, 'I was no better acquainted with him than the day he blazed me. 'A mos, extraw'd'nary gen'l'man' reminisced the old servant."

"Nobody could get nex' to him. Seemed like he was always a-evin' to himself. 'No use me tryin' to be anybody 'cause all I can possibly evah be is jus' the son of muh fathah. So he jus' shrunk into hisself an' the oldah he got, the mo' he got that way."

"REGULAR HUMMIT"

"I've head' he was a right smat' man, but you nevah could tell it by talkin' to him, fo' he almos' nevah said anything 'ceptin' 'what he couldn't get out o' sayin' an' then he said it the sho'test way possible."

"He spent mos' all his time readin'. He nevah had no company. He nevah accepted no invitations. He nevah puttahed around in the ga'den. He sca'ce evah went walkin'. The only time he got out was sometimes fo' a little automobile ride an' he didn't do that ve'y often."

"They called him a hummit. If evah theah was one, he was it."

"He was pooly the las' yeah he lived, but it didn't make him no mo' of a hummit than he was before, 'cause nothin' could. He was a hummit evah since he settled down to live in Gawgetown regulah."

"Was he a good employah? W'y I was with him so long an' I've had so few employahs that I sca'ce got anything to compah. him with. You see, I was with this house when he bought it, which was mo' than 50 years ago—I disremember jus' how many mo' years—an' I jus' went with the house when he took it ovah. He wasn't heah much fo' a good many years, but he kep' the house ready fo' him an' I had chahge of it. 'I guess he was a to'able good employah."

"I know he didn't give no trouble. He wanted sca'ce anythin'. Him not goin' out nowheah an' neva havin' anybody in an' playin' no games an' havin' no fads aw nuffin', he didn't take much waitin' on."

UNLIKE HIS FATHER

"But he was afraid of buglars. This is a big house, you see, an' he was mos' alone in it an' the nebbahood is rathah lonely, too' an' him a mighty old man, an' it worried him thinkin' how somebody might bus' in some night. He had all the fanciest kind of burglah alarms, an' if anybody evah had broke in, the noise would 'a' made would 'a' been somethin' tree-min-jous."

"Mista Lincoln wasn' a bit like his fathah. I use to see him when I was a youngstah. He was mighty tall an' mighty thin an' they say he was talkative. Mista Robet was short and chunky an' I nevah head' him uttah a wo'd he could get out of."

The Georgetown house is closed now, but Plummer is still in charge of the premises, pending settlement of the estate. When that has been attended to, he, too, intends to retire, to his old home at Rosslyn, Virginia.

MADISON RING BETRAYS STATE, PERRY CHARGES

Tax Receipts for Last Six Years Will Give Proof to Accusation

Elkhorn—(P)—Wisconsin has been "betrayed" by the "Madison ring of professional politicians" in tax affairs, Assemblyman Charles B. Perry asserted in a speech here Monday night.

"If you will take your receipts for the last six years," he said, "you will have indisputable proof."

"In this connection, I want to charge that every, single, solitary member of that group of politicians who have been engendered in power at Madison for at least the last six years are responsible for the present tax situation in Wisconsin. They have all of them, every one of them, played

start the day right with GOLD BOND COFFEE politics from breakfast to bedtime. The various department boards, bureaus and commissions, under each of their particular control, have been made to function as a football of politics, for the purpose of furthering their own political ambitions at the expense of the taxpayers of the state. "You were promised lower federal taxes by the Republican party if it went into power at Washington. You have received lower taxes.

"On the other hand, this Madison ring (by "Madison ring" I want you to definitely understand I am including every professional politician that has been connected with it—Huber, Blaine, Zimmerman, Ekern, Smith, all of them perfect gentlemen, against whom I hold no personal animosity whatever, but all of them hand in glove, and cheek-by-jowl until they fell out over the spoils of office, this Madison ring has given you nothing on earth on the tax line but increased taxes."

DUCK HUNTERS COMBINE TO SAVE THEIR MARSHES

Meet in Neenah to Form Organization to Combat Private Clubs

Neenah—The booster meeting of hunters interested in preserving their rights to hunt unimpeded on the marshes of Lake Poygan, Lake Butte des Morts, Winneconne and the Wolf river, will be held at 7:30 Friday evening at Neenah city hall. This meeting was to have been held a week ago but was postponed in order to secure speakers. An appeal is made to every hunter of ducks in this part of the state to be present at this meeting at which a permanent organization will be completed to take the place of the present temporary structure. Officers will be elected and steps taken to make the organization a state wide one in order to secure the right kind of legislation and representation among the lawmakers.

Former meetings have attracted a large number of men who hunt ducks, and at the present time the organization has a membership of over 100. Similar organizations are being formed in Appleton, Oshkosh, Winneconne and other cities in this vicinity which, when completed, will be combined in their fight against the private clubs and persons who are keeping hunters out of their favorite places.

Well known speakers have been secured by the committee on program for this meeting which is expected to be attended by every hunter in Neenah, Menasha and surrounding territory.

There Are "3" Essential Things

You Want the Washer You Own To Do

Wash Clothes Clean
Wash Clothes Fast
Wash Everything

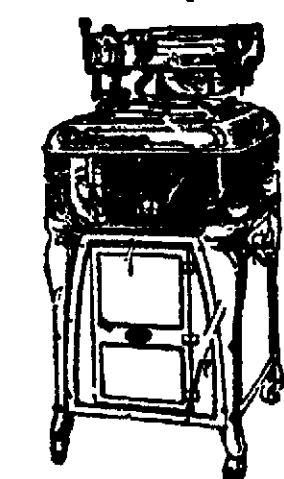

Only in the ZENITH are these THREE essentials carried to the highest degree of perfection.

The ZENITH gives the clothes individual attention while washing them in quantity. Only by doing that can the absolute cleanliness you desire be expected or obtained.

The ZENITH CLOTHES SEPARATOR makes this possible. It is an exclusive ZENITH feature that keeps the clothes spread out. It holds the clothes absolutely under the control of the SOFT RUBBER FINGERED AGITATOR so the sudsy water can pass freely through their porous texture. Clothes are not matted about in tangled masses, but are washed separately, and individually.

Fast washing means clean washing. Given practically individual care in the ZENITH, grimest overalls or lingerie are washed clean in an unbelievably short time.

A FREE TRIAL to every next wash-day will demonstrate to you ZENITH'S SUPERIOR WASHING QUALITIES. Sold on deferred payments.

VANITY CASE

by Carolyn Wells

© 1926 by G-P-PUTNAM SONS

MRS. PRENTISS sees lights mysteriously appear and disappear next door in the Heath household one night, and the next morning HARBOLD, GARDENS, Long Island, is again with the murder of MYRA HEATH and the disappearance of her husband, PERRY.

House guests of the Heaths are LAWRENCE INMAN and BUNNY MOORE. Inman might have a motive because he is heir to Myra's considerable fortune, she having cut Perry off. Suspicion also points to golden-haired, vivacious Bunny, because of her refusal to answer questions at the inquest.

Myra Heath was peculiar. She never used cosmetics, never wore colors. She had a mania for collecting glass, and it was a rare old whisky bottle from her collection that the murderer used to kill her. Candles were burning at her head and feet, and nearby was a card marked, "The Work of Perry Heath." Strangely of all, she was heavily made up and dressed with gay colors.

The peculiar thing about Heath's disappearance is the fact that all windows and doors had been locked on the inside the night before and were found that way by the butler in the morning. Finger prints of Bunny Moore and Inman were found on the bottle and physicians established that the poison was applied to Myra Heath after death.

At the Country Club, the murder is discussed by SAM ANDERSON, Heath's rival for the club presidency; AL CUNNINGHAM, who is trying to solve the crime, and others. Some believe Heath the murderer. Others, including Anderson, disagree. Cunningham learns from Mrs. Prentiss of the mysterious lights. TODD HUNTER BUCK, her nephew, suggests that Heath also may have been murdered.

Bunny and Inman dine alone in the Heath house and the butler announces three callers.

SOV GO ON WITH THE STORY CHAPTER XIX

The three callers were Mrs. Prentiss and her nephew Todd Hunter Buck; and with them was a young man, a stranger to Bunny, but an acquaintance of Inman, Alexander Cunningham.

"I'm out to find Perry Heath," Cunningham said, after they were all seated. "I'm sure you understand, Mr. Inman the interest and anxiety felt by the Country Club members, and as they can't do much as a body, they've asked me to institute a search for Heath, and, also, to do what I can toward unraveling the mystery of Mrs. Heath's tragic death."

"Detective work?" asked Larry, in a non-committal voice.

"Yes, but not a professional. Some men like Arthur Black, Sam Anderson, and others of that crowd, have in a way, engaged me to do this, and I'm mighty glad to try. We are assuming that as the nearest kin of Mrs. Heath, you will sanction any and every effort to solve the mystery of the case."

"Well, I'm not sure about that," Inman said, slowly. "I want to know who killed my cousin of course, but your blanket proposition as to 'any and every effort' seems to me a bit unlimited."

"You want to limit it?" asked Cunningham, his cool grey eyes fixed on Larry's face.

The latter looked up, quickly.

"Perhaps not limit it,—but, rather, assist in its direction."

"Oh, that's all right, we're glad of any assistance. Now, while I'm not a professional detective, I am acting under authority, I am endorsed by the club, and in asking I'm not exceeding my rights in trusting for the freedom of the house for purpose of investigating."

"You mean unquestioned access to all rooms?" Inman stared at him.

"I mean just that," and Cunningham stared back. "I can imagine no possible objection. The examination of Mrs. Heath's room is of utmost importance, and I'm sure Miss Moore would say no word against my entering her room."

"Indeed I would!" and Bunny drew herself up angrily. "Why should you go into my room, Mr. Cunningham?"

"It is an established custom, Miss Moore, to inspect carefully, and with an eye to helpful evidence, all parts of the house and grounds in which a crime has been committed. I am sorry to say, the police, in this case have been lax in this respect. But I am told it is due to the absence of Mr. Heath. That however, is really an additional reason for haste and care in the matter of search, for Mr. Heath's disappearance is a puzzle in itself, and it is highly probable that the two mysteries are interdependent."

"Now, Mr. Cunningham," Mrs. Prentiss broke in, "you're wasting too much time, thrashing out foolish questions. Of course, Mr. Inman wants you to have full swing here, and likewise of course, Miss Moore wants you to make a full search. She's new to this business and doesn't understand. So you go right head, full steam, and I'll bet a cooky, you unearth some clue that nobody else has noticed. You go into that room there,—that's where the awful thing happened,—and you see what you can see!"

Cunningham disappeared into the studio, with young Buck following, leaving a shadow at his heels.

"All rubbed down and polished up," cried Cunningham, disgustedly as he saw the spick and span room. "I did think they'd have the place guarded from that sort of thing."

"What are you out for, anyway?" asked Toddy who was eagerly waiting to see the detective work.

"Oh, just hints—but who could get any hints here? Body gone. Weapon removed,—even the broken bits of glass swept up! No chance for footprints on this thick carpet. No finger prints on these carefully dusted knick-knacks and doo-dads. Even Heath's painting materials are all put away as neatly as a lady's work basket!"

"But what good would finger prints do you? If they were those of the family party, they would mean nothing. And if strange ones, how would you know whose?"

"Point pretty well taken. And, I'm not really keen for finger prints. I just want something—something indicative or suggestive. Well, here are some letters." He ran over a handful he drew from a pigeonhole.

"Nothing any good! They're bills or club notices, mostly. No billet-doux from adoring damsels or anything like that. My, he has a lot of pipe cleaning paraphernalia! Look at all these contraptions!"

Toddy Buck gazed without interest at the array of patent devices for cleaning pipes or cigarette holders.

"Too many," he said, contemptuously. "An old bit of wire does me. And say, how tidy he keeps his paints. Look at these water-color boxes. All in perfect order. I thought artists were a messy lot."

"He isn't. He loves things orderly. His wife did, too. Look at all this glass of hers, ranged in rows in these two cabinets. Not a piece set awry, and all shining and speckless."

"Yes, and there's a row of old bottles like the one she was killed with."

Toddy spoke in an awe-stricken tone. This business seemed a bit gruesome to him, though he was deeply interested.

"Now, maybe Mr. Cunningham," he went on, "maybe the murderer, whoever he was, touched up the lady's face with these paints, instead of regular cosmetics."

Al Cunningham looked up quickly.

"It might be possible. I can't visualize that scene, Buck. If Heath killed his wife, I can understand his painting her face, for he was always at her to do it herself, and, too, he was an artist and forever dabbling with brushes. But I don't think he killed her. For there's no way he could get out. Whereas, if he went away before she was killed, then clearly some one in the house is the criminal, and tried to turn suspicion to Heath by setting up the card and all that."

"Who, for choice?"

"Well, Inman is a good guess. He had motive, opportunity, and time. And he's clever enough to arrange matters to make it seem the work of Heath. I mean the cosmetics and all, as well as the card. And he's an artist, so if the facial applications were from Heath's water-color box, why, Inman could do that all right, too."

"And you think Heath really couldn't get away?"

"After committing the crime? See these windows. Small diamond panes, narrow sashes, strong inside locks."

"But you're only the servants, word that these were all found locked this morning, as well as the rest of the house."

"Yes, and it mostly rests on Herrick's word. But why should he lie about it? Nobody suspects him; he was devoted to Mrs. Heath, and Perry, too. And he could never have put on that make-up so artistically,—so perfectly. No it was the work of an artist,—or, a woman."

"The maids?" queried Buck. "For of course, you can't mean Miss Moore!"

"I mean anybody and nobody. There is no one above suspicion. I'm merely inquiring about everybody. Well, I'm going upstairs. Bedrooms often tell tales that living rooms know nothing of."

asked Toddy who was eagerly waiting to see the detective work.

"Oh, just hints—but who could get any hints here? Body gone. Weapon removed,—even the broken bits of glass swept up! No chance for footprints on this thick carpet. Barbara Bedford and Lewis Stone in "Old Loves and New" AT THE ELITE TODAY AND TOMORROW.

Cunningham went upstairs, and at his nod of invitation, Toddy Buck followed.

"I don't get it," Cunningham murmured, as they entered Heath's bedroom. "Both Inman and the little princess seem all upset at my investigations. Are they shielding Perry? Or any thing in the work of an outsider, those two must have let the outsider in and let him out again, and also they must have let Heath out."

"Unless he went off naturally, and unquestioned, before the tragedy occurred," Toddy said.

"Yes, that's sure talk. Now you see Buck, we must get in our minds a picture of this room of Perry Heath's, look at this place, now. Can't you read Heath all over it? See the chiffonier,—all the brushes and toilet implements laid in a straight orderly row—"

"That's the housemaid's work."

"I know it, but Perry kept them so. You can somehow see that. Look in his dresser drawers. I'll bet his socks and handkerchiefs are in neat piles." He opened one after another, and the clothing was as tidy as he had expected it to be.

"And here's an easy chair, drawn up to the window, with a smoking stand beside it, and a paper rack nearby. He is a bit of a Sybarite, is Perry, and yet a tidy sort, too. The two traits don't go together."

"Well, what you've found out about his neatness and his love of ease doesn't get you along very far in solving the mystery, does it?"

"Don't be impatient, son. All in good time. Now, I have this room photographed on my mind in detail, come on, we'll tackle Mrs. Heath's room."

"Oh, I don't like to," and Buck drew back with a natural instinct against invading the sanctity of the dead woman's apartments.

"All right, you stay out, or go back downstairs."

But Toddy was naturally inquisitive, and, too, he was bound to be in on this detective business, so he followed the older man across the threshold.

Sour Stomach

"Phillips Milk of Magnesia"

Better than Soda

Instead of soda hereafter take a little "Phillips Milk of Magnesia" in water any time for indigestion or sour, acid, gassy stomach, and relief will come instantly.

For fifty years genuine "Phillips Milk of Magnesia" has been prescribed by physicians because it overcomes three times as much acid in the stomach as a saturated solution of bicarbonate of soda, leaving the stomach sweet and free from all gases. It neutralizes acid fermentations in the bowels and gently urges the souring waste from the system without purging. Besides, it is more pleasant to take than soda. Insist upon "Phillips." Twenty-five cent and fifty cent bottles, any drugstore. "Milk of Magnesia" has been the U. S. Registered Trade Mark of The Charles H. Phillips Chemical Co. and its predecessor Charles H. Phillips since 1875.

A STORY OF A GIRL OF TODAY

"Oh, Mamie, Mamie, it's glad I am that your poor father is not alive today," He would hate to see us all starving to death," said my mother, ignoring the fact that my father would probably be earning his eight or ten dollars a day as a mechanic if he were alive.

"You must tell that woman down at the shop, Mamie, that you must have a raise in salary. Tell her about poor Sis at the hospital and if you must about Tom making such a fool of himself. If she isn't ready to add a few dollars to your envelope each week, I think you should go down to Robertson's Department Store. I know they'll give you more than you're getting now."

"You can imagine, Julie, how I felt at that moment. I was sure that never in all my life would I be able to sing. And then I hated myself for thinking of it while my poor mother was in such trouble."

"And I had been willing to give my body and soul for a few music lessons."

"I looked at my poor mother's streaming eyes, at her worn face and hands and my soul seemed to shiver beside her care and grief."

"I had a raise of ten dollars a week, mother. I was going to tell you about it today," I lied. "Until things straighten out a bit you can have it all. I'll take an apple for lunch and walk back and forth."

"Just to see my mother's face glowed with surprise and joy, before she burst into tears, was worth every sacrifice I would have to make. I determined then and there, Julie, that my mother should never suffer and carry over finances again if I could help it."

"There was not much sleep for me that night and I hurried away early the next morning as I had twenty-five blocks to walk to the shop. Strange as it may seem, this walk was the best thing that could happen to me in my mixed-up condition of mind."

"When I got to the shop Madame Serla gave me a letter from Tortenio."

"It merely said, 'Since the Senator was in my studio yesterday I have been thinking about her voice and I have come to the conclusion that I can make of it something that will bring me fame if not fortune.'"

"Consequently I will give Miss Mamie Riley two lessons a week until she is ready to make her debut at the Metropolitan Opera House, knowing that after she has made her debut in Grand Opera she will be generous as well as just to the man that has made her."

"Tortenio."

"I showed the letter to Madame Serla and was somewhat muddled by the smile upon her face. 'I did not know, however, until much later what it might mean.'"

125 TEACHERS ARE EXPECTED AT INSTITUTE

All Rural School Mentors Obligated to Attend Two Day Meeting Here

More than 125 rural and grade school teachers will attend the "course of study" teachers' institute will open Friday for a two day session in the circuit court room at the courthouse. It was announced by A. G. Meating, county superintendent of schools, Monday.

"Although final details of the speaking program have not been arranged the two days will be replete with information and example work essential to the teachers of Outagamie county," Mr. Meating declared.

Courses of study contemplated for the rural districts for the coming school year, talks on school management and the general trend to be followed for the efficient conduct of grade and rural schools will be stressed during the two day sessions. It was pointed out.

Regardless of the fact that no particular allowance is possible to the teachers for these two days it is nevertheless obligatory on their part to attend except in the possible rare instances where individuals may be attending summer school or doing other work correlative to teaching, the superintendent said.

As far as could be determined Monday no amusement program has been outlined for the teachers and it was considered improbable that any diversion would be attempted officially other than the actual objectives of the institute.

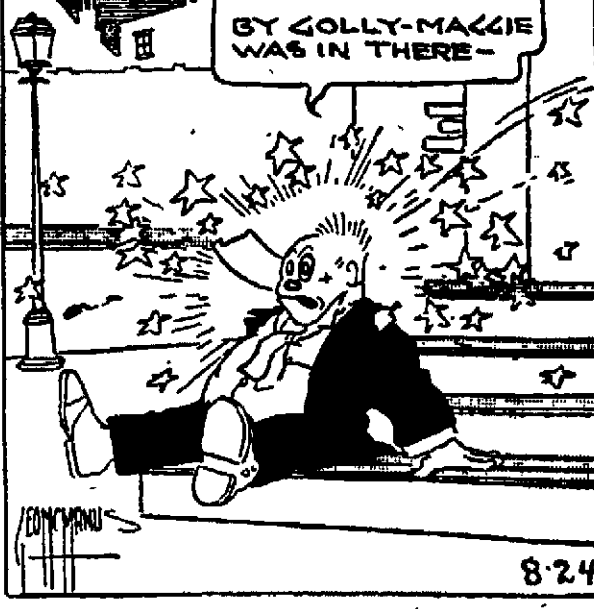

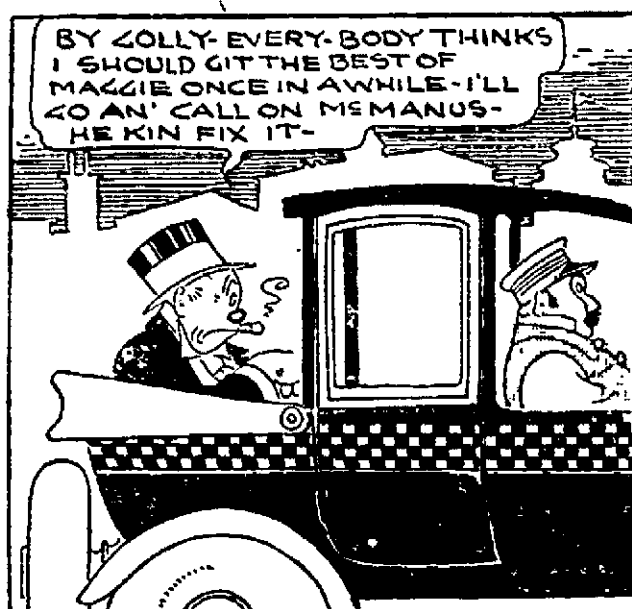

Make Bed-Bug Killer This Easy Way

You can easily make at home a quart of the strongest bed-bug, roaches, ants and fleas. This recipe, known as P.D.Q., can do no damage to your springs or furniture; won't rot or stain clothing. P.D.Q. is used and recommended by leading hot, hospitals and railroads as the quickest and safest way of getting rid of pesky insects. Instantly it smotheres and kills the living creatures, coars their eggs, and stops them from hatching and multiplying. P.D.Q. can also be had in double-strength liquid form for use. Free patent spot enables you to reach hard-to-get-at places with ease. Get P.D.Q. at your drugstore today. Your money back if the bugs are not gone tomorrow.

PLAY FINALS IN PRESIDENT MEET

Jack Stevens, R. E. Thickens
Battle for Riverview Club
Trophy

Jack Stevens and R. E. Thickenens will battle for the Presidents cup at the Riverview Country club as the result of semi-final matches played last week. Stevens whipped Jack Powell in easy fashion, 6 and 5, and Thickenens trounced P. R. McCaull, 2 up. The trophy winner will be decided this week.

R. A. Peterson and Robert Warren will meet in a semi-final match this week, with R. S. Powell and Roy Marston clashing in the other. The same was true in class C. This week Ernst Mahler and Dr. E. H. Brooks will clash the winner meeting J. L. King in the semi-finals. Ray Kelley and A. C. Gilbert meet, the winner talking on Dr. L. H. Moore in the other semi-final match.

New Ark. N. J.—(4)—Billy Petrole, Fargo, N. O., beat Rubie Stel Brooklyn (10).

Phila.—Tommy Herman, Philadelphia, knocked out Leo Roy, Canada (2).

300 ATTEND HOLSTEIN PICNIC DESPITE RAIN

COMPELLED TO HOLD MEETING IN DAIRY BARN

Hear Address by Widely-known Authorities on "Black and White" Breed

Despite the most disagreeable day in many months, about 300 members of the Outagamie and Brown-co Holstein Breeders associations were present last Friday at the annual picnic of the local organization which was held at the farm of George Schaefer, about seven miles west of Appleton, in the town of Greenville.

Owing to the heavy rainfall during the greater part of the afternoon, most of the day was spent in the large dairy barn on the farm and it was necessary to dispense with most of the program, including the milking contests, baseball game, target-shooting, etc.

It was possible, however, to have dinner out on the Schaefer lawn, before the beginning of the heaviest rainfall. Basket lunches were carried by the members of the associations and their families, and coffee and milk were provided by the Outagamie association.

L. L. Oldham, secretary of the State Holstein Breeders association, addressed the gathering on the activities of the association in developing markets for dairy cattle outside of Wisconsin.

During the past year, he stated, about 56,000 purebred high grade cattle were shipped to buyers outside of the state. He stressed the advantage of advertising outside of the state. A show herd was displayed outside of Wisconsin, at fairs, etc. It consists of selected Holsteins.

Mr. Oldham also explained how official records of cattle may now be obtained through the regular testing associations of the various counties. The records, he pointed out, are made under the supervision of Roy Harris, head of the cow testing work of the Wisconsin Department of Agriculture.

Rudolph Schaefer gave a comic sketch, demonstrating the ideal cow. He illustrated his talk with numerous pictures, and in all instances pointed to the glaring faults of numerous "scrub" animals, making believe that these were the ideal qualifications of the best dairy cows.

EXPERTS STUDY FARM ADVANCES

Effect of Modern Conditions on Rural Communities to Be Analyzed

Madison—(P)—The effect of radio, automobiles, hard roads, newspapers and telephones upon farm social organizations such as the Grange, community clubs, farm bureau and farm clubs, will be ascertained in a new study by the agricultural experiment station here.

J. H. Kolt, professor of agricultural economics of the University of Wisconsin, will conduct the survey which will include 600 farm organizations. The local history of each organization will be delved into. Among the organizations to be included are: the Grange, community clubs, farm clubs, parent-teachers association, farm bureau, young people's societies and other social organizations in open country or smaller towns. The study will seek to discover what organizations it only have been rendered useless by the new innovations, Mr. Kolt said.

"It is assumed," he pointed out, "that the new inventions have affected farm life vitally by bringing the farmer into close touch with cities and larger towns. What we will try and solve is the question of what organizations should farmers still retain as their own and in their own communities."

A questionnaire compiled by Mr. Kolt includes questions on the various projects undertaken by the clubs, the form of organization, its achievements and some of the difficulties it is encountering. Organizations that are on the wane will be questioned on the causes for failure whether it be attributable to inadequate leadership, jealousy of leadership, friction over dancing, friction over other social activities, opposition by church or members losing interest.

Other questions to be asked are: What organized attempts have been made to stimulate better relationships between town and country people? What changes in the organization are now needed? What is the proposed future program of the organization?

PABST COW HAS STATE RECORD

Two-year-old Holstein Wins Junior Honors in Seven-day Test

Madison—(P)—Pabst Creator Phebe Champion, a two-year-old Holstein heifer at the Pabst farms at Oconomowoc, has taken all junior two-year-old honors so far in the testing year beginning July 1, with 20,258 pounds of butterfat in a seven-day test. Results of the test were announced

LAST OF SCRUB BULLS!

LEADING TO SLAUGHTER THE LAST INFERIOR BULL IN UNION CO., KY.

Washington—The last inferior bull owned in Union county, Ky., has gone to the butcher, making that county the first and only one in the United States to harbor nothing but purebred bulls.

Under former County Agent L. C. Brewer, the systematic drive to rid Union county of scrub bulls was begun more than five years ago. By the beginning of 1926 only four grade bulls remained. The last of these is gone.

What the county has done with scrub bulls it is trying to do with the sires of all other classes of livestock. Only of all other classes of livestock. Only of all other classes of livestock. Only of all other classes of livestock.

Reach Half-Way Mark In Bovine Tuberculin Test

Madison—(P)—The halfway mark has been reached in the gigantic task of freeing Wisconsin's dairy industry from the menace of bovine tuberculosis. It was disclosed today by John D. Jones, Jr., commissioner of agriculture.

Mr. Jones estimated that with testing of cattle completed in 36 counties of the 71 in the commonwealth, one half of the state's 3,000,000 cow population has been subjected to the scrutiny of the veterinarian. He announced that 1,250,000 head of cattle had been inspected in the area testing work in the 36 counties, and estimated that 250,000 more had been examined through group and herd tests conducted independent of the state work.

During the last fiscal year which closed June 30, the state of Wisconsin spent $160,000 in conducting the test and reimbursement of farmers for condemned cattle. Mr. Jones said, and contemplates using $1,000,000 during the present fiscal year. The state appropriation of $750,000 is available and the commissioner expects the state will receive approximately $250,000 from the federal government.

Only six counties in the state have not applied for testing of their cattle, the commissioner said. They are Crawford, Iowa, Lafayette, Calumet, Manitowish and Oconto.

With all northern Wisconsin inspected, the center of activity in the testing work has shifted south. A large force of veterinarians is working in what is known as the Milwaukee milk area in an attempt to complete inspection there before the ban on milk from untested herds is put into effect by the Wisconsin metropolis Oct. 1.

While a group works among the herds of farmers selling the largest bulk of their milk for the consumption of Milwaukeeans, other inspectors are busy in Barron, Adams, Winnebago, Brown and Fond du Lac counties. Six counties are included in the Milwaukee milk area. They are Ozaukee, Milwaukee, Waukesha, Walworth and Kenosha.

Eight employees of the state agricultural department and between 12 and 15 veterinarians are pushing the work in that area, Mr. Jones asserted. Some opposition is being manifested, but on the whole, the dairymen are for the test. They realize the economic importance of the situation, with the health authorities of Milwaukee standing firm of their declaration that only milk from tested herds will be sold to residents of Milwaukee after October 1.

Milwaukee attempted the ban on untested milk 12 years ago when Dan Hoen, the present mayor, was city attorney, but found it unenforceable because there was no outside market.

by Roy T. Harris, state supervisor of advanced registry testing at the University of Wisconsin. The heifer, classed as a junior two year old produced 25.3 pounds of butter in the period and her average test was 4.93 per cent.

The state record of 26.3 pounds held by Pletierie Ormsby Mercedes Frisby owned by Lawrence J. Murphy, Hartford, was not threatened, Mr. Harris said, although the Pabst heifer has shown promise of bettering her own record.

The best Jersey cow on test at the present time, he said, is Rlater's Daisy Lass, owned by G. B. Reedal, of Phillips. The cow produced 35.5 pounds of butterfat and her whole milk product totaled 6,905 pounds. The record among Jersey cows is held by Gray Girls Midgest owned by C. J. Alt, Lancaster which produced 14,204 pounds of milk in one year with a butterfat content of 823.2 pounds.

HERE'S WHY RAISERS OF LIVESTOCK FAIL

Clemson College, S. C.—Professor L. V. Sarkey enumerates the following drawbacks which handicap successful livestock growing: The high price of feed; inexperienced labor; poor and few fences; scrub natives; lack of disease control; lack of fresh green roughage; inferior permanent pastures; failure to use pure-bred sires; lack of cooperative buying and selling; lack of good care and management.

BADGER APPLE CROP OUTLOOK IS PROMISING

Will Be Best in History of Wisconsin Fruit Specialist Declares

Madison—(P)—Wisconsin's apple crop this year will be the best in its history, W. P. Jones, fruit and vegetable specialist of the state department of markets, asserts.

The crop will begin to move about Sept. 1, when the Wealthy apples become ripe, he said. The department of markets is urging residents of the state to help boost Wisconsin by eating Wisconsin apples.

"The commercial fruit growers of Wisconsin are preparing to harvest the highest quality apple crop ever produced in the state," Mr. Jones said. "We will have fruit equal in quality to any state in the union in the varieties which we grow and the growers are determined to pack only quality stock."

"Our Wealthy apples will begin to move about Sept. 1. Indications are for wonderful color, good size and fruit practically free from all defects. Most of this fruit will be packed in bushel baskets, double faced with attractive liners. This package makes a very attractive appearance and one that can be handled without shrinkage, which is a big item when handling bulk stock. Our later varieties, such as Snows, Greenings and Red McIntosh, will follow the Wealthy crop."

"On account of the large apple crop throughout the United States this season, prices will be very low, which should stimulate consumption and every station in Northern Wisconsin should be able to dispose of at least one car. Cars will run in the neighborhood of 550 baskets to a car."

CATTLE GRUB LOSSES RUN INTO MILLIONS

Washington — Grubs, parasite insects, which breed in the hides of young cattle, cause stampedes and injure hides, costing an annual loss to stock raisers estimated at $50,000,000 to $100,000,000.

The damage done by grubs is revealed by Dr. F. C. Bishop of the Bureau of Entomology, Department of Agriculture. He says the bureau has a plan of control and will use 50,000 to 75,000 head of cattle to test the practicability of its methods.

Fifty per cent of the 5,500,000 hides taken off every year, Dr. Bishop declares, are thrown into grade two on account of damage by grubs.

CROSS-BREEDING OF DAIRY COWS FAILURE

Clemson, S. C. — Because of the large milk production of the Holstein and the high butterfat test of the Jersey or Guernsey milk, there appears to be an advantage in crossing these two breeds of cattle. The advantages of the cross-bred cows is often noticeable to a large extent, but figures show that such cows do not breed true and succeeding generations may be total losses. Professor F. D. Mumford, dairy animal authority at the University of Missouri, says that numerous trials have shown that the result of crossing pure-bred animals is often to destroy the benefits of careful breeding and selection.
